"If we do not find anything pleasant, at least we shall find something new."

- Candide, Voltaire

It is difficult to tell the story of the 2015 legislative session without telling the story of the 2014 election. Riding a nationwide wave of election success, Republicans became the majority in the New Mexico House of Representatives for the first time in 62 years. New house leadership, new committee chairs and new hope for bills that previously never had much chance of passing followed.

As the session drew closer, whispers grew louder that the usual friction between the house and the senate, with different majorities, would be less than pleasant. The points of friction would be many. The governor – elected to a second term with a decisive victory in November – had an agenda that included prohibiting the issuance of driver's licenses to those in the country illegally, ending the practice of social promotion in public schools and prohibiting labor unions from collecting "fair share" payments from non-union members.

In the days and weeks after the session's conclusion, the blame intensified as the media and others characterized the session as unpleasant and unproductive as evidenced, in part, by passage of the fewest number of bills since 1949.

For all that, though, the legislature still sent 191 bills to the governor, including 110 that passed both chambers unanimously. New laws include a requirement for a criminal conviction before cash and property can be seized by law enforcement, regulation of the sale of e-cigarettes and liquid nicotine to minors and the creation of a Rio Grande Trail Commission to begin the process of developing a hiking trail from the Colorado border to the Texas border. The governor signed 158 of the bills sent to her, vetoing 33, including 14 that passed unanimously.

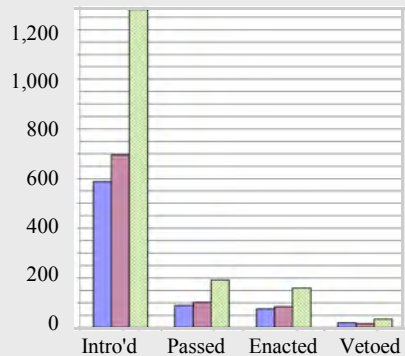

New Indian gaming compacts, negotiated by the governor and five Indian nations, tribes and pueblos, were also approved by the legislature. The new agreement provides somewhat more favorable terms for Indian tribes and a level of certainty both for tribes and the state. Although only five tribes negotiated the compacts, many of the others were expected to sign the new 22-year agreement.

New storylines also emerged from the very beginning of the session. The house created new committees, changed the names of others and tried a new approach to floor session timing, all geared toward making the legislative process more accessible to the public. The senate faced its own challenges, including the resignation of Senator Phil A. Griego in the midst of an ethics investigation.

One of the primary jobs of the legislature is to craft a budget, and the legislature faced challenges in that task as well. As 2014 wound down, declining oil and gas prices chipped away at what initially appeared to be significant new revenue – the first in several years – leaving the legislature with very little new money to work with. Despite the friction between the houses and the political parties and the decreased revenue estimates, the legislature approved a $6.2 billion budget with bipartisan support.

At the conclusion of any legislative session, there are high-profile bills that fail to pass. The list after the 2015 session included the driver's license proposal (the house and senate approved different measures) and measures to end social promotion, prohibit unions from charging fair share payments to non-union members, limit interest for short-term loans and put New Mexico on daylight savings time all year.

But the failed measure that prompted the most discussion after the session was the capital outlay bill, which would have provided $264 million for public works projects around the state. The measure failed on the last day of the session amid disagreement over how to pay for highway repairs and the priority of several statewide projects.

After the session, negotiations for reviving the capital outlay package in a special session began, then fell apart and began again. Eventually, legislative leaders and the governor agreed to hold a one-day special session on June 8 to hear three bills: a bill containing supplemental appropriations for the Department of Health (DOH) and the Administrative Office of the Courts, as well as funding for the special session; a tax package; and a capital outlay package. All three bills were introduced and quickly passed in a special session that lasted only a handful of hours. The tax relief package changed a number of New Mexico's tax laws, including a change to personal income tax deductions for unreimbursed or uncompensated medical expenses and changes to the angel investment credit and the Technology Jobs Tax Credit Act. The capital outlay package included about $295 million worth of projects and featured compromises between the legislature and governor on highway repair funding and other statewide projects. The governor signed all three special session bills, vetoing a little over $1 million from the capital outlay package.

The Highlights is an annual publication of the Legislative Council Service (LCS) that summarizes much, but not all, of the legislative action during each session. The omission of certain legislation or issues should not be interpreted as an indication that those are not important; each is important to someone. Many issues in the Highlights defy single-topic categorization, so every effort has been made to organize and cross-reference the contents. A complete listing of bills that passed is included in the concordance located in Appendix E.

FIRST SESSION, 2015

ALCOHOL

There was significant interest in revising the state's Liquor Control Act during the session. A number of bills related to state liquor policy were introduced, and eight of those bills were passed and signed by the governor. The newly enacted laws have a wide range of effects, from modernizing liquor control-related definitions to allowing the transfer of certain liquor licenses. Many of these initiatives were discussed during the 2014 interim as measures that could support economic development, business and public health in the state.

The Liquor Control Act Task Force was convened in response to a 2013 memorial to study, and make recommendations on, revisions to the Liquor Control Act. House Bill 243 (Chapter 102) was developed from the task force's final recommendations and includes provisions to:

- ▶ explicitly allow packaging of beer and cider in growlers, which are larger-than-usual bottles;
  - ▶ increase parity among craft distillers, winegrowers and small brewers;
  - ▶ revise notice procedures when licenses will be transferred or issued;
  - ▶ allow alternating proprietorships, whereby licensed production facilities and equipment may be shared;
  - ▶ allow formation of purchasing and advertising cooperatives among certain licensees;
- and
- ▶ clarify language related to consignment sales of alcoholic beverages.

The Liquor Control Act provides for the issuance of tasting permits, which allow a licensee to host alcoholic beverage tasting events. House Bill 335 (Chapter 77) establishes penalties for Liquor Control Act violations that occur during tasting events. The penalties increase in severity with successive violations and include fines, restrictions on the licensee's ability to obtain future permits and citations issued against the licensee.

House Bill 478 (Chapter 86) changes expiration dates for certain liquor licenses, specifies deadlines for license renewal applications and prorates license fees charged during the first year after the law takes effect. There are 26 different types of state liquor licenses, all of which, prior to the passage of this bill, expired on June 30 of each year. Most licenses must be renewed annually, but certain licenses are issued for a period of three years. Under the new schedule established in House Bill 478, licenses that renew every three years and licenses for dispensers, retailers and canopies will continue to expire on June 30; however, restaurant, club, wholesaler and manufacturer licenses will now expire on October 31, and all other licenses will expire on February 28.

The holder of a small brewer license or a winegrower license may now simultaneously hold a restaurant or dispenser's license and a small brewer and winegrower limited wholesaler's license according to the revised language in Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 238 (Chapter 113).

The bill creates the "small brewer and winegrower limited wholesaler's license", which allows the licensee to sell and ship beer or wine produced by the licensee.

In an effort to create parity and retail reciprocity between small brewers and winegrowers, Senate Bill 440 (Chapter 124) revises the Domestic Winery, Small Brewery and Craft Distillery Act to allow small brewers to obtain, sell and provide tastings of a winegrower's wine and to allow winegrowers to do the same with respect to a small brewer's beer. The bill also increases the number of off-premises locations at which a small brewer can hold tastings from two to three, which is the same number of locations at which winegrowers may hold tasting events.

Winegrowers were also affected by the passage of House Bill 489 (Chapter 105), which allows winegrowers to take and fill orders for wine that are placed via a web site, whether the winegrower handles the financial transaction related to the order directly or through an agent.

Until now, dispenser's and retailer's licenses have been restricted from transferring out of local option districts that are "under quota", meaning there are fewer licenses in the district than the maximum number allowed by state rule. Senate Bill 241 (Chapter 114) allows dispenser's and retailer's licenses to transfer out of under-quota districts and also removes the requirement that a dispenser or retailer licensee that transfers a license operate or lease the licensed establishment for a year after the transfer.

With the passage of Senate Bill 300 (Chapter 117), a municipal golf course or a state museum that holds a governmental license may now sell distilled spirits. Under previous law, these licensees were restricted to selling only beer and wine.

ANIMALS AND LIVESTOCK

In most sessions, a number of bills are introduced that concern animal welfare and livestock management. This year, four such bills were passed and signed into law, addressing issues affecting abandoned animals, livestock and racehorses.

The horse racing industry in New Mexico has come under scrutiny in recent years due to a perceived increase in the use of illegal performance-enhancing drugs in racehorses. To address concerns on the matter, Senate Bill 489 (Chapter 140) amends statutory provisions regarding racehorse blood testing to require that the State Racing Commission adopt testing standards that meet or exceed those found in model rules of internationally accepted organizations such as the Association of Racing Commissioners International, Incorporated.

In 2007, the Animal Sheltering Act created the Animal Sheltering Board to oversee the operation of animal shelters in New Mexico. At the time of the board's creation, one of its duties was the development of a dog and cat spay and neuter plan in conjunction with local animal shelters. House Bill 415 (Chapter 82) expands the board's duties by requiring it to implement a voluntary statewide sterilization program that includes financial assistance for individuals, groups and shelters that lack sufficient funding to spay and neuter abandoned or unwanted dogs and cats. In addition to directing the money collected from special pet care motor vehicle registration plates into a subaccount earmarked for the statewide spay and neuter program, the bill allows individual taxpayers to contribute all or a portion of an income tax refund to that program.

The word "livestock" is defined differently in different sections of law. Senate Bill 123 (Chapter 22) clarifies the term by making the definition in one section of The Livestock Code comport with the definition in another section of the code. New language provides that goats and sheep are not required to be branded with a hot iron and may be identified by a legible tattoo, paint brand or other device. The bill also adds swine, poultry, ratites, ostriches, emus, rheas, camelids and farmed cervidae to the list of livestock that are exempt from requirements for branding with a hot iron or identification with a legible tattoo.

Current law requires a board of county commissioners to make an order prohibiting the running at large of livestock within certain jurisdictional boundaries if it receives a petition to do so. Senate Bill 398 (Chapter 134) eliminates the mandate by changing the operative word from "shall" to "may", giving discretion to the board.

APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

The amount of general fund revenue estimated to be available to run state government in the next fiscal year – the consensus general fund revenue estimate – represents both a net gain from the previous year, albeit a relatively modest one, and a high-water mark. Nevertheless, New Mexico's post-recession economy has been less buoyant than that of most other states and the nation from both revenue and spending points of view.

After several recession-era legislative sessions in which lawmakers were charged with not only addressing multi-million-dollar revenue shortfalls but also planning for a grim fiscal future, things began to look up. In each of the years from 2012 to 2014, the difference between the prior fiscal year's recurring appropriations and the amount forecast to materialize in the next fiscal year – or "new money" – ranged from about $250 million to $300 million.

This year's new money figure projected in August 2014 – $285 million – fell within that range, but in December it was revised down to $141 million. The number plunged again in February 2015, to $83 million, negligible by comparison to the new money originally anticipated and to that of the three other recession-rebound years.

The downturn in projected FY 2016 general fund revenue reflected fizzling energy-sector performance expectations, and it highlighted the energy sector's pronounced influence – in the form of taxes, rents and royalties – and indirect impact on the state's economy. The setback would have been even more drastic were it not for improvements in projections of revenue from sources that include the gross receipts tax, the compensating tax and personal and corporate income taxes. In the end, the projected revenue decline forced lawmakers to settle on which of, or the extent to which, their previously established spending priorities would make the final, selective cut.

The revenue outlook for FY 2016 was cheery compared to that of the recession years, making fiscal planning in the 2015 session, relatively speaking, a simple task. While planning, however, lawmakers and others paying close attention to the state's shifting revenue prospects observed the downside of a key element of New Mexico's revenue profile: natural resource wealth. That wealth has been instrumental in lifting the state out of its recession; however, declines in natural resource revenue have put a damper on state spending. With signs pointing to oil and gas prices remaining low in the near future, that damper might persist.

General Appropriation Act

House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bills 2 and 4 (Chapter 101, p.v.), titled the General Appropriation Act of 2015, represents policymakers' collective priorities for state spending in the coming fiscal year. The act provides recurring general fund appropriations for FY 2016 totaling $6.2 billion, an increase of 1.3% over the previous year. General fund reserves equal 8.1% of recurring appropriations, somewhat below the recommended 10% level.

This year, with little new money to go around, general fund appropriations to most state agencies for their ordinary operations show little or no year-over-year increase. Rather, the entities in which new recurring spending is concentrated are public schools. The equivalent of about one-half, or $36.6 million, of the new money is dedicated to public school support, and nearly $10 million is dedicated to higher education.

Other fiscally enriched areas include commerce and industry; public safety; and health, hospitals and human services. Of the 10 broad general fund spending areas, only the area of agriculture, energy and natural resources receives less from the fund than in the prior fiscal year. The category of commerce and industry stands out as receiving the greatest proportional increase (6.4%) from the prior year's general fund appropriations for operating budgets.

◆ Public School Support; Other Education

Consistent with past years, and by a wide margin, more general fund money (almost $2.8 billion) will be channeled to non-post-secondary public schools (generally classified under "Public School Support") and education-related entities (classified under "Other Education") than to any other area of state investment. Some of that appropriation will enlarge the formula-based, or state equalization guarantee, amounts distributed to school districts and charter schools, and a portion of those distributions will increase the base salary for new teachers by $2,000. Other appropriations will bolster programs for pre-K through third-grade students. The General Appropriation Act of 2015 also makes special appropriations of $3.1 million for instructional materials; $2 million for teachers to buy classroom supplies; and $2 million for school district funding shortfalls.

◆ Commerce and Industry

The General Appropriation Act of 2015 invests heavily in economic development-related programs. Most notably, $37.5 million<sup>1</sup> is specially appropriated to the Economic Development Department (EDD) for attracting business to and expanding business in the state through the mechanisms provided for by the Local Economic Development Act, and a total of $7.5 million from the general fund is appropriated for the department's Job Training Incentive Program<sup>2</sup> – in both cases, substantially more than what was appropriated for those purposes in the prior fiscal year ($10 million and $1.5 million, respectively). Moreover, the EDD's operating budget will expand by a relatively wide margin – 28.6% – over its FY 2015 budget. Also of note, the Tourism Department's operating budget will expand by 10.1%.

◆ Public Safety

Public safety agencies are appropriated over $18 million more from the general fund for their operating budgets than in the previous year. The Corrections Department will see approximately $10.5 million of that total, primarily to manage inmate population growth, and it also receives a $7 million special appropriation from the general fund for that purpose. A $2 million special appropriation from the Land Grant Permanent Fund to the department is intended to address deferred maintenance at correctional facilities.

Meanwhile, the Department of Public Safety (DPS) is appropriated nearly $6.8 million more from the general fund for its operating budget, much of which will go toward officers' salary increases averaging 5%.

The Crime Victims Reparation Commission experiences a relatively large boost in its recurring funding – 34.2% more than in FY 2015 – with which the commission may expand the provision of services to victims of violent crime.

<sup>1</sup>Includes regular session appropriations in Chapter 1 (Feed Bill) and Sections 4 and 13 of Chapter 101 (General Appropriation Act of 2015); also includes special session appropriations in Chapter 3 (capital outlay projects). Total reflects $2.4 million reduction in Section 10 of the General Appropriation Act of 2015.

<sup>1</sup>Of this total, $27 million is from the general fund and $10.5 million is from a portion of the FY 2015 distribution of governmental gross receipts tax revenue to the New Mexico Finance Authority. The New Mexico Finance Authority uses its distribution to make loans to a variety of entities for public projects.

<sup>2</sup>Of that amount, $2 million of the EDD's operating budget is earmarked – and $5.5 million is specially appropriated – for that purpose.

◆ Health, Hospitals and Human Services

Receiving in FY 2016 over $1.6 billion from the general fund, agencies and programs classified under "Health, Hospitals and Human Services" constitute an area of heavy general fund investment – second only to entities in the "Public School Support" category.

Lawmakers significantly increased the state's investment in the programs and services of the Children, Youth and Families Department (CYFD), giving the agency approximately $8.3 million, or 3.6%, more from the general fund than it received in the prior year. Much of that additional money is intended to improve child protection and advocacy by increasing the number of department employees, particularly in the Protective Services Program.

While much of the increase in the Human Services Department (HSD) funding for administering several large-scale physical health, behavioral health, income-support and food-assistance programs for low-income residents comes from federal sources and other state funds, the department also receives more – approximately $3.8 million – from the general fund for its operating budget. In addition, a special appropriation of $2 million from that stream to the department will help to offset costs associated with an anticipated increase in Medicaid enrollment.

◆ Higher Education

Most of New Mexico's post-secondary educational institutions and the Higher Education Department (HED) will receive approximately $9.5 million, or 1.1%, more from the general fund for their operating budgets than they received in the prior fiscal year. The department, the University of New Mexico (UNM), New Mexico State University (NMSU) and Central New Mexico Community College are the primary recipients of that extra money.

Due to the enactment of House Education Committee Substitute for House Bill 170, which is discussed in the Education section, the HED will receive a special appropriation of $5.5 million from the general fund to replenish the Higher Education Endowment Fund.

◆ Legislative; Judicial; General Control

In general fund terms, the budget totals for most legislative and judicial agencies and agencies classified under "General Control" remain virtually unchanged from the prior year. Notable exceptions include the Administrative Office of the Courts and the Public Defender Department, which will receive more money, and the offices of the attorney general and the state auditor, which will receive less.

The $3.7 million operating budget increase for the Public Defender Department will allow that agency to hire more staff and increase rates for contract attorneys.

Meanwhile, the General Appropriation Act of 2015 also makes a special appropriation of $3.9 million from the general fund to the Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) for the second phase of a project to address large-scale issues associated with the state's accounting system.

◆ Agriculture, Energy and Natural Resources

The general fund appropriation for the operations of the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department (EMNRD) in FY 2016 is reduced by approximately $2.5 million, or 11.2% of its FY 2015 budget. Much of that void will be filled with revenue from federal and other state sources.

Beyond its other negative consequences, drought has taken a toll on New Mexico's pocketbook, as the General Appropriation Act of 2015 suggests. To defend a legal challenge by Texas arising from the Rio Grande Compact, $2 million from the Consumer Settlement Fund is specially appropriated to the attorney general. Along those lines, $2 million from that fund is specially appropriated to the state engineer for ongoing interstate water compact litigation.

◆ Other Appropriations and Transfers

Relying instead on federal funding (about $408.6 million) and money from other state sources (about $456.5 million), the Department of Transportation (DOT), as in the past, receives no general fund revenue for its operations.

Unlike in some years, the General Appropriation Act of 2015 provides no large-scale compensation increase for public employees but, rather, provides targeted increases for certain types of workers. The act does not include a "sanding" provision or across-the-board reduction in state agency general fund appropriations, as was the case last year, but it does include an appropriation adjustment that reduces agency operating budgets to reflect General Services Department (GSD) group insurance contribution reductions for the employee group health benefits program.

◆ Contingencies

Some appropriations from the general fund and other state sources are contingent on the enactment of legislation. They include: appropriations to various agencies upon the enactment of House Bill 38, which was vetoed but would have established a forest and watershed restoration fund and board; a transfer of $20.8 million from the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund to the HSD for its Medical Assistance Program, conditioned on the enactment of Senate Bill 270, discussed under the Appropriations subheading below; and a general fund appropriation of $450,000 for student loan repayment of CYFD employees, conditioned on the enactment of House Bill 341, discussed in the Children and Families section.

In Section 13 of the General Appropriation Act of 2015, appropriations for a variety of purposes to the Administrative Office of the Courts, the HSD and NMSU are made contingent on the approval by the federal secretary of the interior of the Tribal-State Class III Gaming Compact that the legislature ratified in the 2015 session.

◆ Governor's Vetoes

The governor exercised her veto power to strike parts of the General Appropriation Act of 2015. Vetoes to the bill are summarized in Table 3 of Appendix B.

Feed Bill

House Bill 1 (Chapter 1, p.v.), known as the "Feed Bill", appropriates $25.5 million from the general fund to the legislature and legislative agencies for expenditure in FY 2015 and FY 2016. Of that amount, $9.4 million provides for the operations of the 2015 legislative session and $16.2 million supports, in the current and next fiscal years, interim activities and operational costs of the legislative agencies, including the LCS, Legislative Education Study Committee (LESC), Legislative Finance Committee (LFC), Senate Rules Committee, house and senate chief clerks' offices and Legislative Information Systems.

Appropriations

Senate Bill 270 (Chapter 36) makes a distribution from the Tobacco Settlement Permanent Fund to the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund in an amount equal to 50% of the money distributed to the Tobacco Settlement Permanent Fund in FY 2016.

Public Finance

Tax increment for development districts (TIDDs) are designed to spur the economy of a targeted area through the strategic use of public-finance tools. House Bill 441 (Chapter 83) functions as the state component of that design in the recently formed Taos Ski Valley TIDD. The measure authorizes the use of a portion of state gross receipts tax revenue to pay off bonds sold to improve public infrastructure in the district.

The type of projects that can be financed with a county industrial revenue bond are expanded by Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 319 (Chapter 120). A county industrial revenue bond may now be issued for a mine that has received a permit from the EMNRD and for a refinery, treatment plant or processing plant of energy products that has received any necessary permits. The bill also makes changes to the complaint process when an existing business alleges that a proposed project will "directly and substantially compete with" that existing business. The complaint must be filed with the county within 15 days of the meeting at which the ordinance authorizing issuance of the bonds is adopted. Before the bonds can be issued, the county must submit a request of determination to the State Board of Finance, which must conduct a hearing and make a determination within 90 days of receiving the request.

As the statutory limits for severance tax bond and supplemental severance tax bond issuance have grown, so, too, have concerns about the long-term viability of the Severance Tax Permanent Fund, to which is transferred money from the Severance Tax Bonding Fund that is not otherwise pledged for bonds. House Bill 236 (Chapter 63) increases distributions to the permanent fund by phasing in reductions to severance tax bonding capacity and supplemental severance tax bonding capacity.

Under the new law, severance tax bonding capacity is incrementally reduced so that by FY 2019, the amount needed to service outstanding and newly issued severance tax bonds may not exceed 47.6% (versus the previous 50% limit) of the annual deposits into the bonding fund. Aggregate severance tax bonding capacity and supplemental severance tax bonding capacity is also incrementally reduced so that by FY 2022, the aggregate amount needed to service both types of bonds, outstanding and newly issued, may not exceed 86.2% of the annual deposits into the Severance Tax Bonding Fund. Currently, that limit is 95%.

Capacity for the issuance of severance tax bonds and supplemental severance tax bonds is also affected by a change in the way annual deposits into the Severance Tax Bonding Fund are calculated. Previously, that calculation was based on the amount of all deposits into the fund during the preceding fiscal year. Now, it will be based on the lesser of the deposits into the fund during the preceding fiscal year or the deposits into the fund during the current fiscal year, as those deposits are estimated by the Board of Finance Division of the DFA.

The bill also changes the percentages of estimated severance tax bonding capacity allocated for tribal infrastructure projects and colonias infrastructure projects from 5% for each of those project categories to 6.5% in 2016 and to 5.5% in each subsequent year. The changes to the percentage allocations help to offset the severance tax bonding capacity reductions in the amounts available to finance tribal infrastructure projects and colonias infrastructure projects.

The changes made in House Bill 236 also have an impact on public school capital outlay funding. A discussion of these effects appears in the Education section.

Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 174 (Chapter 95) updates the enabling statute governing the State Investment Council (SIC), the state investment officer and Investment Office staff to reflect current practices. The bill revises qualifications for SIC members to include 10 years of experience in finance, investment management, investment risk management, corporate governance or investment accounting, and it revises the experience requirement for the state investment officer, who must now have 10 years of investment and executive experience. The state investment officer also will now serve at the will of the SIC rather than serve four-year terms, terminable for cause. The bill requires that the state investment officer appoint a deputy state investment officer, who will serve as the state's chief investment officer and who must have at least seven years' professional experience in institutional investment management.

The SIC, the state investment officer, Investment Office staff and the staff of certain entities working at their request are now statutorily identified as fiduciaries of the state's permanent funds. The SIC, its committees and its staff are to be indemnified from claims arising from decisions made or actions taken in the scope of duty; however, the indemnification is subject to a clawback provision that permits the state to recover money paid on behalf of a person who acted fraudulently or maliciously.

The bill eliminates the Private Equity Investment Advisory Committee, and it allows the SIC to appoint committees that may include non-SIC and non-staff members. Non-SIC committee members, as well as prospective investment managers, advisers or consultants, must disclose campaign contributions made for the benefit of an SIC member in the two years prior to serving as a committee member or being hired. The bill also reduces the number of annual required SIC meetings from 12 to 10, requires that the annual budget prepared by the state investment officer be both reviewed and approved by the SIC and expands the information required in the state investment officer's monthly reports.

New Mexico Finance Authority

As it has for several years, the New Mexico Finance Authority (NMFA) received legislative authority for making loans and grants for various enumerated infrastructure projects around the state. House Bill 386 (Chapter 80) appropriates $3 million from the Public Project Revolving Fund to the Local Government Planning Fund to enable the NMFA to make grants to qualified entities for infrastructure, water and wastewater public project needs. The entities may also use the grant funding to develop water conservation plans, long-term master plans, economic development plans or energy audits or to pay administrative costs under a local government planning program. House Bill 63 (Chapter 25) authorizes loans in amounts of $1 million or more from the Public Project Revolving Fund, and House Bill 578 (Chapter 88) authorizes loans and grants from the Water Project Fund. In addition, House Bill 578 establishes a new three-year time limit for qualifying recipients to receive loans or grants for authorized water projects. Lists of all projects authorized in these bills are included in Appendix B.

Senate Bill 552 (Chapter 142) makes a nonreverting appropriation of $1.8 million from the Public Project Revolving Fund to the Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund to provide state matching funds for federal Safe Drinking Water Act projects.

Capital Outlay

For the first time since 2011, the session failed to produce a capital outlay bill, as the house and senate disagreed over the details of capital project funding. How to pay for statewide road improvements surfaced as a divisive issue early in the session; proposals included drawing funds from severance tax bonds, drawing funds from general fund reserves and raising the gasoline tax. No agreement was reached before the legislature adjourned, and the bill did not pass. Discussions over a possible compromise and a special session began shortly after the regular session adjourned.

This year's capital outlay reauthorization bill – Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 291 (Chapter 147, p.v.) – did pass and was signed into law. The bill reauthorizes and reappropriates balances from prior capital appropriations to change, expand or clarify the purpose of a project; extend the expenditure period; or change the location or administering agency for a project. The governor vetoed two of the 81 reauthorizations in the bill; in those cases, language for the original appropriations remains intact. Details of projects in the reauthorization bill may be found in Appendix C.

BUSINESS

Several bills were enacted this session that change how business is conducted not only between private parties but also between private parties and the State of New Mexico.

Thirty-two of the state's 33 counties are designated as "health professional shortage areas", and even Bernalillo County, which is not so designated, has portions that are medically underserved. For many communities, the loss of even one health care practitioner is a matter of great concern. Frequently, non-compete provisions in health care practitioner contracts restrict a departing employee from future practice within a certain distance of the workplace for a period of years following the termination of employment. Senate Bill 325 (Chapter 96) makes unenforceable a non-compete provision in an agreement that restricts the right of a dentist, osteopathic physician, physician, podiatrist or certified registered nurse anesthetist to provide clinical health care services. This law does not impair the enforcement of other provisions in the agreement, including a provision for liquidated damages; it does not apply to agreements between health care practitioners who are shareholders, owners, partners or directors of a health care practice. It applies to agreements, renewals and extensions that are signed on or after July 1, 2015.

The bulk of House Bill 85 (Chapter 54) enacts changes to the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act, a uniform law that New Mexico adopted in 1989. The bill also makes minor changes to the state's version of the Uniform Commercial Code to bring it into greater conformity with the model version. Both the act and the code were developed by the Uniform Law Commission, a national organization that drafts laws pertaining to topic areas in which uniformity among states' laws improves efficiency in the legal system. The Uniform Law Commission has encouraged states that have adopted the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act to amend the act, as House Bill 85 does, most notably to:

- ▶ change the name of the act to the "Uniform Voidable Transactions Act";
- ▶ add a choice-of-law rule and rules concerning burden of proof and standard of proof;
- ▶ remove the special definition of "insolvency" that had applied to partnerships;
- ▶ revise the available defenses; and
- ▶ reflect certain modern-age developments in and affecting the law.

Senate Bill 412 (Chapter 135) amends various provisions in the Escrow Company Act regarding information and surety bonds. The act now:

- ▶ requires that escrow companies submit their income tax returns to the Financial Institutions Division of the Regulation and Licensing Department (RLD);
- ▶ sets time requirements for reporting and specifies additional information that an escrow company must report to the buyer and seller of property when a final escrow payment is made and funds are disbursed from an escrow account;
- ▶ allows the director of the Financial Institutions Division of the RLD to obtain arrest records of applicants for escrow company licenses;
- ▶ requires escrow company surety bonds in the amount of $100,000 rather than employee honesty bonds; and
- ▶ protects certain escrow company examination reports, financial information and violation investigation reports from public disclosure.

Entities that interact with the secretary of state may experience some changes in that office's reporting, filing, copying and fee policies as a result of the enactment of House Bill 287 (Chapter 66). When the law takes effect, a registered agent will pay one fee for changing its address on file with the office, regardless of how many corporate entities the agent represents, and any person requesting copies of documents will pay a flat, not scale-based, fee.

CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

The legislature passed bills to protect parents from school or governmental pressure to place their children on psychotropic medications, provide a statewide environment free from bullying, conform certain guardianship statutes to federal law and help increase worker retention in the state's child protective services system, all discussed below. Bills concerning childhood vaccines and Medicaid eligibility for former foster children are discussed in the Health and Human Services section.

House Bill 53 (Chapter 51) prohibits school personnel from pressuring parents to place their children on psychotropic drugs and provides that school personnel shall not require a child to undergo psychological testing without a parent or guardian's permission. The bill also provides that a child shall not be placed in state child protective custody solely on the grounds that the child's parent, guardian or custodian refuses to consent to the administration of a psychotropic medication to the child.

To eradicate bullying statewide and to memorialize the life of Carlos Vigil, a New Mexico victim of bullying who died in July 2013, Senate Bill 381 (Chapter 132) enacts the Carlos Vigil Memorial Act with the aim of cultivating "a statewide culture where bullying is not accepted". The act establishes the Eradicate Bullying Fund, administered by the UNM Board of Regents, to provide grants to programs designed to end bullying in the state. The act also establishes the Carlos Vigil Memorial Board, consisting of members with relevant experience who are appointed by legislative leadership and the governor to authorize grants pursuant to the act.

House Bill 277 (Chapter 28) amends various provisions in the Kinship Guardianship Act. The bill removes a requirement to report a child's marital status in a petition seeking appointment of a guardian, and it conforms a statutory requirement for setting a hearing date with court procedural rules so that a court may set a hearing date after receipt of the petition. Amendments made to Section 40-10B-8 NMSA 1978 conform the act to the federal Indian Child Welfare Act of 1978 by requiring that a decision to place an Indian child in foster care, including in the home of a guardian, be supported by clear and convincing evidence. The previous standard had required evidence beyond a reasonable doubt.

The Children, Youth and Families Worker Loan Repayment Act, enacted in House Bill 341 (Chapter 16), provides a mechanism for the CYFD to grant awards to employees working in the Protective Services Division or Juvenile Justice Division of the department to repay educational loans in an effort to increase employee retention in these areas. The act creates the Children, Youth and Families Worker Loan Repayment Fund, which consists of appropriations, repayments, interest received by the department, income from investment of the fund, gifts, grants and donations. Like all other educational loan and loan-for-service programs, the act is administered by the HED.

CONSUMERS

The legislature passed three bills aimed at protecting consumers' interests. Two of those bills reflect policymakers' focus on addressing concerns related to electronic cigarettes, the use of which has dramatically increased in recent years. The third bill pertains to disposal of personal property in self-storage units.

In the event of nonpayment of fees or abandonment of personal property in a self-storage unit, an owner of a self-storage facility is now required to provide written notice by verified mail to a renter's last known address or by electronic mail to the last known electronic address prior to disposing of the renter's property. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 311 (Chapter 118) also provides that the sale may be conducted on a publicly accessible online web site. The bill provides for towing of a vehicle, watercraft or trailer subject to a lien if the owner opts not to sell the vehicle, watercraft or trailer.

The first of the two "e-cigarette"-related bills that were signed into law, House Bill 213 (Chapter 76) requires child-resistant packaging for nicotine liquid containers that are intended for use with electronic delivery devices, or e-cigarettes. The bill provides for enforcement by the attorney general, a civil penalty of up to $1,000 and injunctive relief. The second bill, Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 433 (Chapter 98), prohibits the sale or distribution, including the online internet sale or distribution, of e-cigarettes and nicotine liquid containers to minors and requires nicotine liquid containers to be child-resistant. Violation is punishable as a misdemeanor. Additionally, the bill requires e-cigarettes and nicotine liquid containers to be sold in original factory-sealed packages, provides that a retailer may refuse to sell such products to any person who is unable to produce an identity card as proof of age, requires face-to-face sales and imposes certain point-of-sale signage requirements. The bill provides for compliance inspections by the Alcohol and Gaming Division of the RLD and requires the Public Education Department (PED) to revise its tobacco, alcohol and drug-free school districts policy to include e-cigarettes and nicotine liquid containers.

COURTS, PUBLIC SAFETY AND CRIMINAL LAW

The 2015 legislative session included passage of two significant bills in the area of public safety – one making changes to the forfeiture of property in criminal proceedings and another reorganizing the DPS. The forfeiture bill made national headlines as New Mexico took the lead in the national debate on reexamining forfeiture statutes. The other bills that passed were, as is the norm, a hodgepodge of tweaks and changes to various criminal statutes and other statutes related to the courts and public safety. The only bill put forward by the Criminal Justice Reform Subcommittee that made it through the legislative process was one that would have reduced probation time for good behavior, but that bill was vetoed by the governor. In addition, the senate passed a bill that would have decriminalized the possession of small amounts of marijuana, continuing New Mexico's engagement with the national debate on marijuana legalization. That bill did not progress in the house.

House Bill 560 (Chapter 152) significantly alters the law governing forfeiture of property to the state. The bill includes revisions to the section of the state's Forfeiture Act that describes the act's purposes to explicitly state that the act is intended, among other things, to protect against wrongful forfeiture of property and to ensure that only criminal forfeiture is undertaken in the state. New statutory language enacted elsewhere in the Forfeiture Act includes:

- ▶ a requirement that a person be criminally convicted before property is forfeited;
  - ▶ a requirement that all proceeds from the sale of forfeited or abandoned property be deposited in the general fund instead of remaining with the law enforcement agency that seizes property;
  - ▶ details regarding how forfeiture proceedings must be conducted;
  - ▶ a requirement that the rules of criminal procedure be used in forfeiture proceedings;
- and
- ▶ law enforcement agency reporting requirements.

The bill also establishes a process by which a person who has an interest in property seized in connection with a crime but who is not accused of that crime can assert rights to the property. Several sections of law outside of the Forfeiture Act are also revised in the bill to clarify that the forfeiture proceedings referred to in those sections are governed by the Forfeiture Act.

The other public safety-related bill, Senate Floor Substitute for Senate Bill 95 (Chapter 3), restructures the DPS. The bill places the Special Investigations Division and the Motor Transportation Division under the New Mexico State Police Division, while also amending the definition of "state police member" in the Public Employees Retirement Act. In addition, the bill changes the name of the Training and Recruiting Division to the "New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy" and makes some clarifying changes to the Liquor Control Act.

Two bills that passed affect the courts. House Bill 487 (Chapter 87) allows municipalities with a population of less than 10,000 – increased from the previous limit of less than 3,000 – to transfer balances from certain municipal court fees to the municipality's general fund. Senate Bill 107 (Chapter 91) removes the reference to judgments of courts not of record from the statute providing for limitations on actions based on certain private written instruments.

Senate Bill 510 (Chapter 10) makes changes to the Crime Victims Reparation Act. The bill amends and expands the enumerated crimes in the act and allows the Crime Victims Reparation Commission to extend the time for filing a claim. It also creates a mandatory crime victims reparation fee for those convicted of a misdemeanor or felony offense, thus providing a new funding stream for the Crime Victims Reparation Fund.

There were three bills that passed concerning criminal law. House Bill 101 (Chapter 13) revises the penalties for sexual exploitation of children by prostitution by removing the present statute's age restrictions and makes it a second degree felony for someone to hire or offer to hire a child under the age of 16 to engage in any prohibited sexual act. House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 142 (Chapter 42) criminalizes the distribution of certain sensitive or intimate images of a person, sometimes referred to as "revenge pornography", when the images are distributed with the intent to harass, humiliate, intimidate or otherwise injure that person. House Bill 328 (Chapter 43) prohibits the alteration of motor vehicle airbags, prohibits the sale and installation of counterfeit or nonfunctional airbags, requires airbags in rental vehicles and vehicles for hire and prohibits misrepresentation with respect to airbags. Violation is punishable as a misdemeanor, except that violation resulting in great bodily harm or death is punishable as a fourth degree felony.

The federal wireless emergency alert system enables wireless providers to disseminate to their customers geographically targeted emergency notifications, including alerts issued by the U.S. president, imminent threats to safety or life and AMBER alerts. Prior to the passage of House Bill 174 (Chapter 14), state law allowed, but did not require, wireless providers to disseminate AMBER alerts to customers via text message. With the passage of this bill, all wireless providers in the state are required to distribute wireless emergency alerts via text messages to their customers who are in the affected geographic area. The bill also provides that customers shall not be charged for receipt of those messages, and it requires authorities that have the necessary infrastructure to use the federal integrated public alert system to communicate alerts.

The Concealed Handgun Carry Act provides that current certified law enforcement officers and certain retired law enforcement officers do not have to pay application and renewal fees for concealed carry permits. These officers are also exempt from firearms training course and refresher course requirements imposed under the act. House Bill 431 (Chapter 157) expands these exemptions to include members of the New Mexico Mounted Patrol; military personnel on active, reserve or guard duty with the U.S. armed forces; and veterans and retirees who were honorably discharged from the armed forces within 20 years of applying for a concealed carry license or license renewal.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 208 (Chapter 128) amends the Fraud Against Taxpayers Act to clarify that provisions of the act also apply to charter schools and political subdivisions of the state.

CULTURAL AFFAIRS

The lone bill signed into law from this session concerning cultural affairs, Senate Bill 450 (Chapter 19), standardizes and aligns the powers and duties of museum boards and museum division directors. The bill adds new sections where the law had not previously provided for board or division powers and duties, and it modernizes sections that date back to the 1950s and 1970s. It also allows the Historic Preservation Division of the Cultural Affairs Department to collect fees for the use of its databases and archives; the money collected will go toward maintaining and improving the databases and archives.

EDUCATION

For the fourth year in a row, the most talked-about education-related bills of the session have been various iterations of bills that have been popularly known as the "third grade retention bill". This year, bills supported by the governor were introduced in both the house and the senate and appeared to be much closer to the original version of those introduced in 2012 than those proposed in the 2011, 2013 and 2014 sessions. The house version made it through the house, but no version of the third grade retention bill made it through the entire legislature for consideration by the governor.

Twenty-nine of the 191 bills that passed during the session were related to public education. Five education-related bills were vetoed – four with messages and one by a pocket veto. A number of the education bills signed into law had been worked on during the interim and received bipartisan endorsements by interim legislative committees.

Public Schools

Since it was first enacted during the "war on poverty" years, the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, under various titles, has been reauthorized approximately every five years until the current version, commonly known as "No Child Left Behind", was signed into law in 2002. Among its more controversial provisions is one that requires all students to make what the bill defines as "adequate yearly progress" toward reading at grade level by 2014, a date that has come and gone. Since most New Mexico education policymakers and stakeholders agree that the adequate yearly progress provision is a laudable goal but virtually impossible to meet, the legislature passed and the governor signed into law House Bill 165 (Chapter 58), which removes all references to adequate yearly progress from the Public School Code.

In 2014, a temporary section of statute was passed and signed into law to conform several different terms that refer to an alternative high school diploma in statute to "high school equivalency credential". This year, in Senate Bill 357 (Chapter 122), the legislature provided technical clean-up language that changed all such terms in statute to "high school equivalency credential".

In addition to defining several career-technical terms, House Bill 178 (Chapter 60) amends Public School Code graduation requirements to provide that districts may allow a student who completes an industry-recognized credential, certificate or degree to receive additional weight in the calculation of the student's grade point average. This measure also defines career-technical terms such as "career and technical education", "career cluster" and "career pathways".

The K-3 Plus Program, established to reduce the achievement gap among New Mexico students, has grown by 625% since 2008, with 18,056 students participating in 2014. Unfortunately, 71,000 students are not yet eligible because of funding shortages. The General Appropriation Act of 2015, discussed in the Appropriations and Finance section, provides $23.7 million for the program for FY 2016. House Bill 479 (Chapter 75) allows public schools that improve their school grade rating through participation in the K-3 Plus Program to continue with the program. For the next school year, that number will include at least 17 additional elementary schools.

Senate Floor Substitute for Senate Bills 153 and 126 (Chapter 74) provides a streamlined path for teachers who meet certain criteria to attain administrative licensure. To qualify for a level three-B administrator's license, a teacher must hold a current level two or level three-A teacher's license, hold a post-baccalaureate degree or National Board for Professional Teaching Standards certification and have completed an administrator preparation licensure program approved by the PED. The new level three-B license is a five-year license, which is a reduction of four years from the previous nine-year license.

School counselors who hold a level three or level three-A license will be paid the same salary as a level three-A teacher under House Bill 318 (Chapter 103). Since the 2007-2008 school year, the level three-A teacher salary has been a minimum of $50,000 in a school year.

Charter Schools

Legislation to establish New Mexico's first charter schools was enacted in 1993. Limited in scope, this early legislation allowed the establishment of only five charter schools statewide, which were to be converted from traditional public schools. What distinguished these five public charter schools from traditional public schools was the fact that the charter schools were to receive and have control of 98% of the funding generated by their schools through the state equalization guarantee.

Enacted in 1999, the Charter Schools Act greatly expanded the potential scope of charter school missions and allowed the establishment of up to 100 charter schools during the first five-year period. The 2006 legislature made significant changes to the Charter Schools Act, including the establishment of the Public Education Commission as the authorizer of state-chartered charter schools.

During the 2014 interim, the LESC created a subcommittee to look at the current version of the Charter Schools Act and to attempt to reconcile differences and fill in gaps in both the act and relevant sections of the Public School Finance Act and other sections of the Public School Code. On the recommendation of the task force, the LESC endorsed Senate Bill 148 (Chapter 108), an omnibus bill that amends 15 sections of statute containing provisions relating to charter schools. The enacted version of the bill addresses ambiguities and inconsistencies relating to conflicting definitions, requirements related to the charter school application and approval process, development and submission of budgets and the charter contract and agreed-upon performance framework between the charter school and its authorizer. Other amendments in the bill deal with technical corrections and other types of "cleanup".

In the past five or six years, charter schools have been eligible to receive a prorated share of proceeds from the Public School Capital Improvements Act (also called the "two-mill levy" and "SB 9") and the Public School Buildings Act (also called "HB 33"). These two voter-approved funding mechanisms are direct mill levies imposed by the school districts in which a charter school, which may be locally or state-chartered, is located. Without apparent statutory requirement to do so, four years ago, a New Mexico school district issued "education technology notes", which do not require voter approval, and did not share the proceeds with state-chartered charter schools in the district. Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 8 (Chapter 68) amends the Education Technology Equipment Act to require that all charter schools in a school district receive a prorated share of education technology equipment purchased by the school district through a lease-purchase arrangement under provisions of the act. The measure also allows the local school board to submit the question of creating this debt to local voters for approval and requires the board to abide by the majority vote on the question.

Among its provisions, Chapter 22, Article 15F NMSA 1978 enacts the New Mexico School for the Arts Act and states as its purpose the provision of a statewide residential, state-chartered charter school for grades nine through 12. State law requires that, with some exceptions, a charter for a charter school cannot be renewed on or after July 1, 2015 unless the school is housed in a public building. Passage of Senate Joint Resolution 7 assists in addressing that situation by approving the GSD's transfer of ownership, by negotiated sale, of approximately 11 acres of land in Santa Fe County near the Santa Fe University of Art and Design to the New Mexico School for the Arts. Proceeds from the sale of the property, which has an appraised market value of $1.4 million, will be deposited in the Property Control Reserve Fund to purchase, construct, renovate or plan for the construction or renovation of state buildings.

Public School Capital Outlay

House Bill 236 (Chapter 63) amends the Severance Tax Bonding Act to increase the amount of revenue deposited into the Severance Tax Permanent Fund by phasing in reductions to the statutory limits of both senior and supplemental severance tax bond capacities. Reductions to public school capital outlay projects are "held harmless" until FY 2019, when provisions of the bill are fully phased in. At that time, revenues used to finance supplemental severance tax bonds for public school capital outlay will be reduced from 45% to 38.6% of the revenue to the Severance Tax Bonding Fund. Further aspects of the bill are discussed in the Appropriations and Finance section.

After introduction for three years in a row, Senate Bill 128 (Chapter 93) amends the Public School Capital Outlay Act to allow the Public School Capital Outlay Council to provide allocations of up to $15 million each year in FY 2016 through FY 2020 for school district grants to address building systems needs in existing school buildings. Besides defining the term "building systems", the bill also requires the council to establish a ranking system to allow prioritization.

Senate Bill 130 (Chapter 106) amends the Public School Lease Purchase Act, enacted in 2007, to resolve ambiguities, conflicts and confusion that have arisen due in part to enactment of several piecemeal amendments or inconsistent application of terms. Some provisions of the act that are deleted rely on discrete geographic boundaries of school districts, which do not apply to charter schools.

Public School Transportation

During both the 2012 and 2013 legislative interims, an LESC subcommittee of LESC members, PED staff, school district transportation staff and other interested parties examined issues related to public school transportation and made recommendations for changes to make current law track more closely with current requirements. Even though the subcommittee was not reconstituted for the 2014 interim, the LESC decided to rework two bills that had not passed during the 2014 session for consideration by the 2015 legislature. Both of those bills passed. Senate Bill 129 (Chapter 46) amends the Public School Finance Act to require school district liens on contractor-owned school buses under contract to the school district. Without a lien in place at all times to protect the state's investment, a contractor could sell school buses or use them as collateral for loans, precluding the state from accessing them in the event a contract is not renewed or is terminated.

House Bill 164 (Chapter 57) also amends the Public School Finance Act to change the dates for reporting school transportation information to the PED. Rather than including the number of students on November 15, reports will now include an average of the number of students on the second and third reporting dates of the prior school year. The bill also includes a temporary provision to allow a transition from current-year to prior-year reporting.

Post-Secondary Education

Before enactment of Senate Bill 329 (Chapter 97), post-secondary students planning to seek a teaching license were required to attend post-secondary educational institutions for an average of two additional semesters beyond the usual eight semesters to satisfy the required 57 general education credit hour requirements in statute. Provisions of the bill, which will go into effect July 1, 2016, change the requirements for applicants seeking licensure or reciprocal licensure in elementary, special education, early childhood and secondary education by reducing the total number of mandatory general education semester hours from 57 to 38 credit hours before admission into a college of education. Deans of the colleges of education in New Mexico's public post-secondary educational institutions requested the change in order to give colleges of education more latitude in the way they prepare students to be licensed teachers. The amendments allow students to obtain an additional minor in another content teaching area and also provide students in special education the opportunity to obtain a dual licensure in special education without having to take more credit hours.

House Bill 460 (Chapter 84) creates the "lottery student community outreach pilot project", a six-year study that encourages lottery tuition scholarship students to participate in the project by volunteering community outreach services, chiefly through mentoring public school students. Scholarship students are not required to participate in the pilot project to maintain their scholarships. The stated purpose of the pilot project is to demonstrate that:

- ▶ mentors and mentees both receive similar benefits, including improved grades and on-time graduation and a sense of confidence, purpose and community and civic engagement;
- ▶ the services provided improve the community in which the student volunteers work and in which the public school students live;
- ▶ mentoring by young adults can help disadvantaged public school students narrow the achievement gap; improve cognitive, social and behavioral skills; and lead to higher test scores and success in school; and
- ▶ mentoring can improve the student volunteer's skills, test scores and success in college and inculcate civic and social engagement in community life.

The pilot project will be administered by the HED and conducted in at least three public post-secondary educational institutions around the state. The goal of the project is to have at least one research university, one comprehensive university and one branch or independent community college and 500 tuition scholarship students participating in the project, particularly in areas with high poverty rates and high English language learner populations.

Among its provisions, House Education Committee Substitute for House Bill 170 (Chapter 7) modifies the purposes, uses and distribution procedures for the Higher Education Endowment Fund. The bill provides that the enumerated public post-secondary educational institutions must submit a proposal to compete for an award from the fund to establish an endowment. Previously, enumerated institutions were entitled to receive a fixed percentage from the fund without having to submit a proposal. Now, of the amount available from the fund, UNM, the UNM Health Sciences Center, NMSU and the

New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology may compete for 62%; the New Mexico Military Institute and any independent community college, branch community college and technical and vocational institute may compete for 20%; and New Mexico Highlands University, Eastern New Mexico University, Western New Mexico University and Northern New Mexico College may compete for 18%. An award is distributed only upon proof that 50% in matching funds is forthcoming. Prior to the passage of House Bill 170, an institution's matching fund percentage ranged from 30% to 50%, depending on the institution.

Award determinations are to be made by the HED or the Higher Education Endowment Committee, created in the bill and consisting of the secretaries of higher education, economic development and finance and administration or their designees. The award cycle is now two years rather than three years. After the first year of the cycle, awards forfeited due to the lack of matching funds may be reallocated to any enumerated institution that submits a successful proposal for such forfeited awards. At the end of the second year of the cycle, unmatched balances revert to the general fund.

The legislature authorized New Mexico's entrance into distance education in the higher education arena by enacting the Interstate Distance Education Act in Senate Bill 446 (Chapter 23). Under provisions of the act, "distance education" is defined as "instruction offered online or through correspondence or interactive video or other means enabling a student in one state to receive instruction from a higher education provider in another state". The bill requires the HED to establish a program for facilitating participation in distance education by in-state and out-of-state students through in-state and out-of-state post-secondary educational institutions. It also allows the HED to enter into reciprocity agreements that provide uniform standards and parameters for distance education courses and programs with other states either through the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education or through individual agreements with other states.

Provisions in the bill require the HED to monitor the compliance of participating institutions with the act and to ensure satisfactory complaint resolutions. To participate, an institution must provide documentation to the HED showing compliance with the interregional guidelines for the evaluation of distance education programs adopted by the Council of Regional Accrediting Commissions; provide documentation of current accreditation; and meet financial responsibility standards set by the U.S. Department of Education.

Under the provisions of House Bill 121 (Chapter 41) and Senate Bill 341 (Chapter 47), which are identical bills, nursing educators employed by a public post-secondary educational institution and registered nurses seeking employment in a post-secondary educational institution are eligible to access the Nurse Educators Fund to enable them to attain bachelor of science, master of science, doctor of nursing practice and doctor of philosophy degrees in nursing programs.

House Bill 282 (Chapter 29) requires that all state institutions of higher education establish, by August 1, 2017, a common naming and numbering system for courses identified as substantially equivalent lower-division courses. The bill also updates references to the HED.

As also discussed in the Military and Veterans' Affairs section, House Bill 427 (Chapter 151) brings New Mexico law into compliance with the federal Post-9/11 Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2008 by providing that a spouse or child of an active-duty veteran is eligible to receive in-state tuition at any state public post-secondary educational institution.

House Bill 567 (Chapter 158) requires the Center for Telehealth at the UNM Health Sciences Center to be named the "Stephen Easley Telehealth Videoconferencing Center" after the late Representative Stephen Easley, who died in office on August 14, 2013.

ELECTIONS

The session produced an omnibus election bill with numerous changes to the Election Code. Among its many provisions, Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 643 (Chapter 145) requires the phasing in of electronic voter registration, authorizes the secretary of state to share voter registration information with election administrators from other states, enacts the Uniform Military and Overseas Voters Act, establishes procedures for the verification of voter registration information and revises recount procedures and requirements.

EMPLOYMENT AND LABOR

The provisions from two bills relating to employment and labor go into effect in 2015. One deals with the airline industry and laws governing employees' working hours; the other sets parameters for legal claims against payment bonds on public works contracts.

By repealing a delayed repeal in a 2013 law, Senate Bill 70 (Chapter 21) continues to exempt airlines from the overtime provisions of Section 50-4-22 NMSA 1978 if the overtime hours are not required by the employer and are arranged by a voluntary agreement between workers who trade shifts pursuant to a written agreement between the workers. The agreement cannot require the worker to work more than 13 consecutive days, 16 hours in a day or 60 hours within a week.

In addition to some technical cleanup of Section 13-4-19 NMSA 1978, Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 158 (Chapter 109) clarifies that a claim against a payment bond on a public works contract for an unpaid balance due can be made only for the labor done or performed or materials furnished to be used in the construction of the public works project and that any sums due will be determined according to the subcontract or other contractual relationship directly with the contractor furnishing the payment bond. If the state sues for taxes due for services under the contract, the court may allow interest and reasonable attorney fees as part of the costs.

ENERGY, ENVIRONMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

Five bills were enacted addressing energy, the environment and natural resources, three of which address issues in the oil and gas industry. The other bills address accident reporting in the mining industry and create the Rio Grande Trail Commission.

House Energy, Environment and Natural Resources Committee Substitute for House Bill 383 (Chapter 79) and Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 442 (Chapter 99) identically amend existing law to provide that the Oil Conservation Commission "shall" require a one-well financial assurance on any well that has been held in a temporarily abandoned status for more than two years or, at the election of the operator, may allow an operator to increase its blanket plugging financial assurance to cover wells held in temporarily abandoned status. Previous law stated that the commission "may" impose the one-well financial assurance and did not allow for the blanket option.

A new section of the Oil and Gas Act enacted by Senate Bill 389 (Chapter 133) requires a hearing by the Oil Conservation Commission prior to adoption of new or amended rules. The bill establishes deadlines for filing an adopted rule with the State Records Center and Archives and any appeals of a rule to the courts. Rules may be appealed to the Court of Appeals only by a party of record to the proceeding before the Oil Conservation Commission or a person adversely affected by a rule within 30 days after the filing of the rule. The Court of Appeals may set aside rules only if they are arbitrary, capricious or an abuse of discretion; not supported by substantial evidence in the record; or otherwise contrary to law.

In response to the events following the Sago Mine accident in West Virginia, New Mexico enacted in 2007 new reporting requirements for mining accidents modeled on new federal emergency notification regulations. However, those reporting requirements did not distinguish between accidents occurring in underground mines and those occurring in surface mines. Senate Bill 146 (Chapter 107) amends definitions in the Mining Safety Act to distinguish between accidents in surface mines and accidents in underground mines, thus clarifying reporting requirements for each.

For many years, some advocates have tried to promote the creation of a "Rio Grande Trail" similar to the Appalachian Trail or the Continental Divide Trail. This year, they finally met with success with the passage and signing of House Energy, Environment and Natural Resources Committee Substitute for House Bill 563 (Chapter 20). The bill creates the Rio Grande Trail Commission to establish the Rio Grande Trail. The commission is administratively attached to the EMNRD and is composed of an array of stakeholders. The commission is authorized to define and recommend path routes and mitigate challenges related to the trail's establishment. The bill also creates the Rio Grande Trail Fund to be used for the development and establishment of the Rio Grande Trail, but it does not make an appropriation to the fund. Money in the fund shall be subject to appropriation by the legislature in any given year.

GAME AND FISH

Hunting and fishing are popular in New Mexico and are major tourism vehicles, so game and fish bills are common. The four that were signed into law this year include a new listing to animals under Department of Game and Fish (DGF) jurisdiction, an adjustment to the way the department administers penalties, discounts for veterans' hunting and fishing licenses and department authority to manage volunteers.

House Bill 201 (Chapter 26) adds tilapia to the list of protected species, thus authorizing the DGF to manage this imported species to protect native flora and fauna. The bill also corrects the scientific name in the statute (Moronidae) for the group of fish containing striped and white bass.

The State Game Commission's powers and duties are augmented by Senate Bill 231 (Chapter 35). The commission may now recruit, train and accept the services of volunteers for education and outreach activities, hunter and angler services and wildlife conservation activities. The bill requires that volunteers comply with all policies and procedures of the director of the DGF and provides that a volunteer is not a state employee and not subject to state employee hours of work, rates of compensation, leave, unemployment compensation or benefits.

A New Mexico resident who is a veteran of the U.S. military or who is active-duty military is eligible for a 50% discount on any license, permit or stamp issued by the DGF pursuant to House Bill 203 (Chapter 148). The bill amends previous discounts for veterans or military personnel to provide for the blanket 50% reduction.

House Bill 202 (Chapter 27) adjusts penalties for violations of game and fish laws and allows for a fine for certain game and fish violations rather than requiring an appearance in court.

GAMING

For the third consecutive session, the legislature faced the question of whether to approve a new casino gambling agreement negotiated between the governor and one or more tribes. With the looming mid-2015 expiration of an agreement approved in 2001, several tribes faced closure of their gambling operations and the state faced revenue losses in the tens of millions of dollars.

The agreement, which was negotiated between the Office of the Governor and the Navajo Nation, the Jicarilla Apache Nation, the Mescalero Apache Tribe, the Pueblo of Acoma and the Pueblo of Jemez, received the legislature's approval with the passage of Senate Joint Resolution 19. The new agreement is considered more favorable to the tribes than an agreement reached in 2007 with nine other tribes in that it provides the tribes with the same or lower revenue-sharing rates, greater latitude to offer discounted or free lodging and meals to gamblers and clear authority to deduct more payouts, specifically payouts due to "free play", before calculating payments to the state. A tribe operating under the new agreement will report more information to the state on how it spends money on problem gambling programs and will participate in the state's self-exclusion program. Tribes operating under the 2007 agreement are allowed to switch to the 2015 agreement.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

The legislature passed a broad range of bills relating to health during the session, addressing such diverse topics as synchronization of prescriptions, lay caregivers, health provider credentialing and freestanding birth centers. While these and other bills are discussed below, several bills relating to health care professional scope of practice or licensure matters are discussed in the Professional and Occupational Licensure section.

Many patients living with chronic health conditions take multiple prescriptions, each with individual dispensing schedules. This situation may entail many logistical difficulties, including a requirement that a patient or caregiver make several trips per month to a pharmacy for refills. While inconvenient for city dwellers, multiple dispensing schedules may be impracticable for people who live a considerable distance from a dispensing pharmacy. House Bill 274 (Chapter 65) addresses this issue by allowing chronic medications to be synchronized when a prescribing practitioner or pharmacist finds synchronization to be in the patient's best interest. Through synchronization, a patient may have multiple prescriptions filled with partial fills and the fill dates aligned to decrease the necessary trips for refills. The bill specifies that pharmacies receive a full dispensing fee for these partial, synchronized fills, but it provides that patients shall prorate any copayment or coinsurance charged for the prescription. It bans an insurer or coverage administrator from denying payment for a prescription on the basis that it is a partial fill when made for the purposes of prescription synchronization under this law. The bill also enacts new sections of the following acts to establish these prescription synchronization provisions: the Health Care Purchasing Act to affect state employee and retiree coverage; the Public Assistance Act to affect state medical assistance coverage; the New Mexico Insurance Code to affect individual, group and blanket coverage; the Health Maintenance Organization Law to affect health maintenance organization contract coverage; and the Nonprofit Health Care Plan Law to affect nonprofit health care plan coverage.

Most individuals who are discharged after a hospital stay and who need follow-up care at home receive that care from a family member or friend who is not trained in health care, commonly referred to as a "lay caregiver". House Bill 139 (Chapter 155) directs hospitals to allow patients to designate a lay caregiver and to provide a discharge plan to a designated lay caregiver. The discharge plan lays out directions for delivering aftercare and for administering medications to the discharged patient. The bill defines "aftercare" to include care that does not require licensure or other authority to perform tasks as a health care professional.

When a health care provider begins offering services at a health facility, the health facility likely must seek to render that provider's services eligible for third-party reimbursement. This process is commonly called "credentialing", though it is distinguished from the credentialing process that health facilities use to authorize a health care provider to perform certain procedures at that facility. Third-party payers that most often credential physicians for reimbursement eligibility are health insurance carriers. The credentialing process involves extensive background checks and can be quite lengthy, sometimes taking as long as six months or more for a credentialing application to be approved or denied. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 220 (Chapter 111) enacts new sections of the New Mexico Insurance Code relating to individual, group and blanket insurers and the Health Maintenance Organization Law and the Nonprofit Health Care Plan Law to require these types of carriers to use a single credentialing application developed by the Office of Superintendent of Insurance. Carriers are required to make determinations within 45 days of receiving completed applications and are also required to reimburse those health care providers whose credentialing has not been approved within 45 days of submitting a complete application. Reimbursement must be made at the carrier's standard reimbursement rate or, for health care providers in existing or group practices, at the contracted rate for that existing or group practice. The bill also establishes the authority of the Office of Superintendent of Insurance to enforce these provisions.

With the passage of the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA) in 2010, individuals may be covered by their parents' health insurance plans until the age of 26. However, former foster children who "aged out" of the foster-care system have no parents whose insurance plans could cover them until that age. Although HSD rules already allow for the provision of Medicaid benefits to former recipients of foster care in New Mexico until age 26, House Bill 505 (Chapter 31) requires the department to provide Medicaid coverage to former foster children regardless of the state in which a former foster care recipient received that care. This law provides Medicaid coverage for those individuals who would not otherwise qualify for Medicaid coverage under the ACA's eligibility expansion.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 42 (Chapter 127) amends the Public Assistance Act to establish that incarceration in a nonmedical institution is not grounds per se for denial or termination of Medicaid enrollment. The bill provides that inmates of nonmedical institutions may be deemed eligible for medical assistance administered by the Medical Assistance Division of the HSD. This provision has the effect of allowing individuals to remain enrolled in Medicaid during incarceration and, to the extent allowed by federal law, allows the HSD to use federal matching funds to pay for care received by an incarcerated individual who is enrolled in Medicaid. The bill also requires the HSD to offer enrollment in Medicaid to individuals before they are released from custody. Additionally, the bill requires that correctional facilities notify the HSD when an individual eligible for Medicaid is in their custody.

For several years, the DOH has purchased childhood vaccines for all New Mexico children to ensure high rates of childhood vaccinations. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 121 (Chapter 5) establishes a statutory vaccine purchasing program, allowing the department to continue purchasing vaccines for children throughout the state, including those who qualify for federally subsidized vaccines and those who do not because they are insured. This legislation creates a mechanism for the state to recoup the costs of vaccines for insured children from health insurers regulated by the state and from group health plans regulated by the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

Three bills signed into law concern health care facilities that provide certain specialized care. House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 212 (Chapter 61) requires the HSD to seek federal permission to reimburse for the services of crisis triage centers used by recipients of state medical assistance. "Crisis triage centers" are defined as health facilities where mental health stabilization services are provided on an outpatient or short-term residential basis to individuals who are experiencing mental health crises. The bill also directs the DOH to promulgate rules by July 1, 2016 to license and regulate crisis triage centers as health facilities. Senate Bill 81 (Chapter 90) amends provisions of the Public Health Act that relate to primary stroke centers, comprehensive stroke centers and acute stroke capable centers to require that the DOH work with local emergency medical systems to establish pre-hospitalization protocols for the assessment, treatment and transport of stroke patients. The bill also directs the DOH to certify these types of hospitals as stroke centers when the hospitals are accredited by the Joint Commission "or any other nationally recognized accrediting body". House Bill 84 (Chapter 153) provides that freestanding birth centers shall be included among the health facilities licensed and regulated as such by the DOH, and it provides that freestanding birth centers accredited by the Commission for the Accreditation of Birth Centers or its successor accreditation body shall be granted a license renewal based on that accreditation.

To assist certified nurse-midwives with their often expensive medical malpractice insurance coverage premiums, New Mexico established the Birthing Workforce Retention Fund in 2008. House Bill 171 (Chapter 59) removes as a factor of eligibility for premium assistance through the fund the requirement that certified nurse-midwives' premiums had increased over the previous two years. The bill also specifies that the fund may not be used to purchase "tail coverage" that would cover claims incurred during a certified nurse-midwife's practice for a period after the certified nurse-midwife has ceased practicing.

Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 189 (Chapter 33) relates to the availability of automated external defibrillators (AEDs) – equipment designed to save the lives of persons suffering cardiac arrest. The bill provides that persons who make AEDs available, who oversee an AED program, who provide training in the use of automated AEDs, who maintain or place AEDs or who supervise these operations shall be liable only if they fail to use reasonable care in these activities. The bill also extends tort liability protection to "good samaritans", or those who act without compensation and who use an AED to rescue someone showing signs of cardiac arrest, making these good samaritans immune from liability unless they act in a willful, wanton or reckless manner that causes death or injury. Instead of relying exclusively on licensed physicians to oversee an AED program, the bill allows any person who is trained in the use of AED guidelines to oversee the program.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bills 323 and 474 (Chapter 121) makes several changes to Health Information System Act provisions relating to the disclosure of certain types of health information. It removes a ban on identifying health facilities when making disclosures of aggregate health information; establishes a Health Information System Act advisory committee, made up of appointees of the secretary of health, to advise the DOH in matters related to the Health Information System Act; and requires the DOH to ensure that the public is provided with a user-friendly, searchable web site, accessible through the state's sunshine portal, on which the department is charged with posting aggregate information relating to health care cost and quality, a step that may provide the basis for posting hospital and other health facility comparison data.

Enacted in 1998, the Genetic Information Privacy Act requires written consent for genetic testing, with some exceptions. House Bill 369 (Chapter 156) adds an exception for laboratories conducting an analysis or test of a specified individual pursuant to a written order from a health care practitioner or the health care practitioner's agent, including by electronic transmission.

HOUSING

The 2015 legislature addressed affordable housing issues raised by the recent foreclosure crisis and resolved some relatively minor conflicts in existing affordable housing statutes. It also protected homeowners' rights to display flags in accordance with local, state and federal statutes.

Senate Bill 61 (Chapter 69) amends the Affordable Housing Act to permit state and local governments to timely sell foreclosed residential properties at fair market value. An affordable housing project that receives a housing assistance grant pursuant to the act must meet a requirement for long-term affordability so that it cannot be sold shortly after completion and taken out of the affordable housing market. Because this long-term affordability requirement makes it difficult for the state or a local government to resell foreclosed property and recoup public resources invested in the property, Senate Bill 61 provides an exception to the long-term affordability requirement in the case of foreclosure. The bill also allows the attorney general to bring civil actions, charge civil penalties and pursue criminal charges as appropriate, in addition to investigating alleged violations of the act.

A conflict between the Affordable Housing Act and the Affordable Housing Tax Credit Act is resolved in Senate Bill 62 (Chapter 17) with a change to the definition of "person" in the Affordable Housing Tax Credit Act. The change clarifies that local governments are not eligible for investment vouchers for contribution of resources for affordable housing issued by the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority for use as tax credits.

With the amendments made to the Homeowner Association Act in House Bill 320 (Chapter 104), associations shall no longer adopt or enforce a restriction related to the flying or displaying of flags that is more restrictive than the applicable federal or state law or county or municipal ordinance. While some provisions of the Homeowner Association Act only apply to associations created after the act was signed into law in 2013, this provision applies to all associations in the state, regardless of when an association was created.

INSURANCE

Two bills from the session that were signed into law revise statutes concerning the Insurance Nominating Committee and workers' compensation. Several bills listed below as related bills are specific to health insurance and are discussed in the Health and Human Services section.

Senate Bill 3 (Chapter 11) modifies the laws that affect the recently created Insurance Nominating Committee, whose primary function is to appoint the superintendent of insurance, and it amends the provisions that pertain to the qualifications of the superintendent. The bill delineates other laws to which the committee and its members are subject; charges the committee with setting the superintendent's salary; administratively attaches the committee to the Office of Superintendent of Insurance and imposes certain confidentiality requirements on that office's staff; and relaxes the residency and financial conflict-of-interest requirements applicable to the superintendent.

In an apparent response to New Mexico Supreme Court rulings in Fowler v. Vista Care and Breen v. Carlsbad Municipal Schools, Senate Bill 233 (Chapter 70) sets the maximum period of eligibility for temporary or partial disability or death benefit payments at 700 weeks in both the Workers' Compensation Act and the New Mexico Occupational Disease Disablement Law. The limit affects both physical and mental disability payments.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Most of the enacted measures from the session concerning local government are discussed in the Taxation, Appropriations and Finance and Public Officers and Employees sections and are listed below as related bills. One new statute concerning the finances of land grants-mercedes is the exception.

Beginning in 2004, qualifying community land grants, or land grants-mercedes, became political subdivisions of the state. In the years since, the land grants-mercedes have steadily improved their internal checks and balances, as well as the organizational strength required of local governments. House Bill 83 (Chapter 40) continues this progress by allowing land grants-mercedes to secure their finances within credit unions as well as banks and allowing their boards of trustees to use modern, recordable methods to make purchases and payments to contractors and employees.

MILITARY AND VETERANS' AFFAIRS

A handful of laws will go into effect this year that provide a direct benefit to current and former members of the military and members of the National Guard of New Mexico. Among the new measures, state schools will now offer in-state tuition to certain military family members; federal life insurance coverage for national guard members will increase; and new support services will be available to veterans suffering from the effects of airborne hazards and open burn pits. A bill that significantly reduces the cost of hunting and fishing licenses for veterans and military members – House Bill 203 – is discussed in the Game and Fish section.

If a spouse or child of a veteran of the armed forces is entitled to educational benefits under federal law, the spouse or child is now entitled to pay in-state tuition rates and fees at New Mexico educational institutions with the passage of House Bill 427 (Chapter 151). The bill brings New Mexico law into compliance with the federal Post-9/11 Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2008.

National guard members are eligible for life insurance policies through the federal service members' group life insurance program, and New Mexico pays the premiums for this insurance coverage for members of the National Guard of New Mexico. House Bill 220 (Chapter 149) increases the amount of coverage for which national guard members are eligible to the maximum amount available under federal law, which is currently $400,000.

In an ongoing effort to ameliorate the health impacts suffered by New Mexico military service members and veterans who have been exposed to open burn pit smoke or other airborne hazards during their service, Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 144 (Chapter 94) enacts the Senior Master Sergeant Jessey Baca Military Airborne Hazards and Open Burn Pit Registry Act. The act directs the secretary of veterans' services to keep abreast of the most current information on treatment, how treatment can be accessed, any pertinent information regarding the federal registry and how New Mexico military service members and veterans may best avail themselves of related resources.

Beginning in 2005, New Mexico taxpayers were allowed to designate a portion of their state income tax refunds to assist members of the National Guard of New Mexico who were activated for service in the global war on terror, and to their families. House Bill 327 (Chapter 150) expands eligibility for assistance to all members of the National Guard of New Mexico who are deployed overseas for more than 30 days, and to their families.

Senate Bill 369 (Chapter 123) changes the makeup of the Military Base Planning Commission and pares it down from 17 to 12 members to include the lieutenant governor and nine representatives of counties in which military bases are located or adjoining counties. Two additional members from other counties shall be appointed. All appointed members are to be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate. The governor's chief of staff replaces the governor's homeland security adviser in a support and advisory role to the Office of Military Base Planning and Support.

MOTOR VEHICLES AND TRANSPORTATION

In addition to raising the compensation made to landowners who are affected by new road construction, several statutes concerning vehicle use and licensing were enacted in 2015. These new statutes establish a larger zone for heavy truck use near New Mexico's international ports of entry, conform the state's truck registration requirements with an international shipping agreement and limit the speed on some county roads. Additionally, legislation was enacted to accommodate an expected market for three-wheeled vehicles that look and operate similar to cars but that are classified as motorcycles under federal law.

Both state and federal governments have long paid compensation to individuals and businesses when construction of a transportation project requires that they relocate their home, farm or business. Moreover, a sizable portion of New Mexico's construction budget for transportation derives from federal sources, and having differing levels of relocation compensation raises a potential to lose those federal funds. Senate Bill 453 (Chapter 136) increases the amounts of the relocation payments under state law to conform to new federal standards that became effective on October 1, 2014 pursuant to the federal Moving Ahead for Progress in the 21st Century Act, or MAP-21.

House Bill 377 (Chapter 9) amends the Motor Vehicle Code to bring New Mexico into compliance with the federal Intermodal Surface Transportation and Efficiency Act of 1991 by including the state in the "international registration plan". The plan is a registration reciprocity agreement among the contiguous states of the United States, the District of Columbia and provinces of Canada that provides for payment of apportionable fees on the basis of total distance operated by certain motor vehicles in all jurisdictions.

Certain vehicles and trucks have a weight impact on the state's highways that exceeds what has been allowed under law and that may damage the pavement due to the nature of their loads and their size relative to the number of axles. Senate Bill 622 (Chapter 49) provides for a multiple-trip permit to be issued by the DPS for these vehicles and trucks, and it sets out the maximum weight that a permitted truck may impose on the road surface by use of a formula based on the number of and distance between the axles. The bill further provides for the department to establish other requirements and a reasonable permit fee by rule.

Mexico sets a higher weight standard for trucks using its highways than does New Mexico – 96,000 pounds versus 80,000 pounds. In 2011, the legislature created "overweight zones" within six miles of New Mexico's international ports of entry in which permits for trucks to use the Mexican standard are authorized. Senate Bill 52 (Chapter 48) extends these overweight zones to 12 miles. While the overweight zone at the Columbus port of entry is extended to 12 miles, the zone extension at the Santa Teresa port of entry is limited to a quarter circle starting at a point 12 miles due north of the port of entry and arcing to a point on the border 12 miles west of the port of entry. The limited extension at Santa Teresa helps preserve the rural farmland areas along the Rio Grande in Doña Ana County. In addition, the local governments within the overweight zones and the State Transportation Commission now have additional authority to exempt local roadways from the overweight permits based on proximity to medical and educational facilities and on road design.

An autocycle is a three-wheeled motor vehicle that provides an enclosed compartment like an automobile but includes a tandem seat configuration like a motorcycle. Under federal law, autocycles are treated as motorcycles; however, because they are enclosed and equipped with airbags, seat belts and a metal frame, some legislatures have considered exempting autocycles from helmet requirements in state law. House Transportation and Public Works Committee Substitute for House Bill 65 (Chapter 53) requires that autocycles be registered as motorcycles and requires proof of financial responsibility, but it allows operation without a motorcycle endorsement. The bill defines "autocycles" as vehicles that are controlled with a steering wheel and pedals and that have airbag protection and antilock brakes, and it exempts operators and riders of autocycles from requirements associated with motorcycles, such as footrests, eye protective devices and helmets for people under the age of 18.

House Ways and Means Committee Substitute for House Bill 91 (Chapter 6) amends exemption provisions in the Driving School Licensing Act pertaining to nonprofit corporations that provide motor vehicle accident prevention courses. To qualify for exemption from the act, the courses previously had to meet requirements of the New Mexico Insurance Code and had to be provided exclusively for drivers 55 years or older. In lieu of meeting New Mexico Insurance Code requirements, the courses now must be approved by the Traffic Safety Bureau of the DOT, and they must be provided exclusively for drivers 50 years or older.

Senate Bill 125 (Chapter 45) sets the speed limit on unposted county roads at 55 miles per hour. Prior to enactment of the measure, these roads had a default speed limit of 75 miles per hour.

Occasionally, the legislature authorizes specialty license plates to raise public awareness, and sometimes funding, for a particular entity or endeavor. This year's newly authorized license plates are:

- ▶ a license plate commemorating New Mexico Junior College, pursuant to House Bill 107 (Chapter 154). The plate will cost $35.00 annually, of which $25.00 goes to the HED to support education and instruction programs at New Mexico Junior College;
- ▶ a license plate raising awareness of autism, pursuant to House Bill 103 (Chapter 55). The plate will cost $35.00 annually, of which $25.00 goes to the DOH to fund autism research, outreach and education; and
- ▶ a New Mexico Amigos license plate, pursuant to Senate Bill 97 (Chapter 4). Members of New Mexico Amigos – an organization of business and industry leaders that works to recruit new businesses to the state or promote trade with other countries – can purchase this plate for an additional $10.00 over the regular motor vehicle registration fee.

PROFESSIONAL AND OCCUPATIONAL LICENSURE

The number of licensed professions and workers practicing them has grown as the nation's economy has become increasingly service-based. For many years, New Mexico has been at the forefront of a national trend to expand state-level occupational licensing, particularly in the area of health care.

Since 2001, anesthesiologist assistants have been licensed by the New Mexico Medical Board to assist anesthesiologists, who are medical doctors with specialty training in anesthesiology. Under current law, anesthesiologist assistants may only practice if employed by a New Mexico university that has a medical school, namely, UNM. House Bill 54 (Chapter 52) expands the venues where anesthesiologist assistants may practice, but it requires that those who work outside of UNM:

- ▶ be certified as anesthesiologist assistants by the National Commission for Certification of Anesthesiologist Assistants;
- ▶ practice only in a health facility licensed by the DOH where, at the time the anesthesiologist assistant begins practicing there, at least three anesthesiologists who are medical doctors and who are board-certified as anesthesiologists by the American Board of Anesthesiology are on staff as employees or contractors;
- ▶ practice only in a Class A county; and
- ▶ be supervised only by an anesthesiologist who is a medical doctor and who is board-certified as an anesthesiologist by the American Board of Anesthesiology.

Allied health professionals such as advanced practice nurses, physician assistants and certified nurse-midwives are currently authorized under state law to perform many functions formerly reserved to physicians. Senate Bill 299 (Chapter 116) updates certain sections of the law that recognized only a physician as qualified to conduct required examinations or to provide an opinion regarding the medical condition of a person examined. As a result of this legislation, these allied health professionals may now certify that a person has a disability, is vaccinated or is free from communicable diseases. It adds these allied health professionals to provisions of the Uniform Health-Care Decisions Act, the Family Planning Act, the Cardiac Arrest Response Act, the Children's Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities Act and the Workers' Compensation Act, as well as to provisions for the issuance of special license plates or placards based upon a significant mobility limitation. The bill also directs state agencies and political subdivisions to update their rules requiring an examination or certification by a physician to include examinations performed, or certifications provided, by these allied health professionals.

Senate Bill 367 (Chapter 131) makes two significant changes to the Optometry Act relating to optometrists' practices. It establishes the Board of Optometry's sole authority to establish the scope of practice for optometrists, and it provides optometrists with certain limited prescribing powers. The prescribing powers include all pharmaceutical agents for the diagnosis and treatment of diseases of the eye or related areas of the body. These agents may include medications that contain the narcotic hydrocodone but no other scheduled controlled substances. Optometrists may also administer epinephrine to counter anaphylaxis.

With the passage of Senate Bill 571 (Chapter 144), physical therapists practicing in New Mexico will be able to see patients without a referral from a primary care provider, as required for most patients under existing law. The bill provides, however, that a physical therapist shall refer a patient to a physician, osteopathic physician, chiropractic physician, podiatrist, dentist, doctor of oriental medicine, certified nurse practitioner, certified nurse-midwife, certified nurse specialist or physician assistant if a patient has not made progress within 30 days or if the patient exhibits symptoms that require treatment beyond a physical therapist's scope of practice.

The impetus for House Bill 463 (Chapter 85), which concerns barber licensure, was to develop an employment route for victims of domestic violence who live in rural areas of the state and do not have access to post-secondary educational opportunities in those areas. It provides for barber licensure after completion of a registered apprenticeship program approved by the state apprenticeship agency.

In addition to overseeing barbers and cosmetologists, the Board of Barbers and Cosmetologists has had oversight of body art practices, such as tattooing, piercing and scarification. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 275 (Chapter 129) moves oversight of body art practices from that board to the newly created Board of Body Art Practitioners, which consists of two body art practitioners, two body art establishment operators and one public member. The bill also establishes the board's duties and powers; clarifies licensing procedures for body artists and body art establishment operators; and creates the Body Art Practitioners Fund.

Senate Bill 200 (Chapter 110) amends the Speech-Language Pathology, Audiology and Hearing Aid Dispensing Practices Act to update and clarify scope of practice and licensure definitions to conform with national standards and to clarify requirements for a bilingual-multicultural endorsement.

First sessions of a legislature include the introduction of legislation to change sunset dates for certain boards and commissions. Pursuant to Senate Bill 318 (Chapter 119), the lives of the following boards are extended until July 1 of the following years:

- ▶ Office of Military Base Planning and Support – 2021;
- ▶ Board of Optometry – 2023;
- ▶ Chiropractic Board – 2021;
- ▶ New Mexico Board of Dental Health Care – 2023;
- ▶ Nutrition and Dietetics Practice Board – 2021;
- ▶ Board of Podiatry – 2023;
- ▶ New Mexico State Board of Psychologist Examiners – 2021;

- ▶ Counseling and Therapy Practice Board – 2021;
- ▶ Board of Osteopathic Medical Examiners – 2021;
- ▶ Board of Pharmacy – 2023;
- ▶ Board of Examiners for Occupational Therapy – 2021;
- ▶ Advisory Board of Respiratory Care Practitioners – 2021;
- ▶ Massage Therapy Board – 2021;
- ▶ Physical Therapy Board – 2021;
- ▶ Speech-Language Pathology, Audiology and Hearing Aid Dispensing Practices Board – 2021;
- ▶ Athletic Trainer Practice Board – 2021; and
- ▶ Board of Social Work Examiners – 2021.

The attorney general issued an opinion recently that highlighted New Mexico law dealing with public access for fishing in public waters and spurred enactment of this year's lone piece of legislation concerning property rights. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 226 (Chapter 34) was enacted as an attempt to clarify the law both for fishing enthusiasts and landowners of property adjacent to public waters. The bill adds language to existing law to prohibit people who are engaged in hunting, fishing, trapping, camping, hiking, sightseeing, the operation of watercraft or any other recreational activity from walking or wading onto private property through non-navigable public water or accessing public water via private property unless the property owner or lessee or person in control of private land has given written consent.

PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

Enacted legislation pertaining to public officers and employees includes amendments to the Public Employees Retirement Act, authorization for incentive pay increases for qualifying appraisers employed in county assessors' offices and a requirement to establish a leave donation program.

A 2014 amendment to Section 10-11B-5 NMSA 1978 increased from $50,000 to $250,000 the supplemental death benefits payable to the spouse or children of a firefighter, including a volunteer firefighter, who dies in the line of duty. This year's Senate Bill 519 (Chapter 24) authorizes transfers of funds from the Fire Protection Fund to the Firefighters' Survivors Fund to maintain a balance of $250,000.

Under the provisions of Senate Bill 4 (Chapter 67), beginning January 1, 2016, a volunteer firefighter who was eligible for service credit under the Volunteer Firefighters Retirement Act, but whose chief did not submit the required documentation, may adjust service credit for no more than the two preceding calendar years.

Property appraisers in New Mexico may obtain four different levels of certification in property evaluation and tax administration, and county governments are authorized to award incentive pay according to the level of certification to qualifying appraisers within their respective county assessors' offices. House Bill 348 (Chapter 78) increases the allowable pay incentives set in 1977. Incentive pay continues to be $500 for the first level, but incentive pay for levels two through four now ranges from $1,500 to $3,000.

All New Mexico governmental employers provide their employees with some form of annual and sick leave that can accrue over time. Employees of the state, some school districts and government employers operating under a collective bargaining agreement are allowed to bank leave or donate it to other employees who are suffering a medical crisis and have used up their available leave. House Bill 403 (Chapter 81) mandates that all New Mexico governmental employers provide a leave donation program in which employees in need of additional medical leave may request and other employees may donate annual or sick leave to the requesting employee. The new law does not replace a collective bargaining agreement that already includes a similar program.

STATE GOVERNMENT

Bills affecting state government that were signed into law mostly center on procurement matters and public property. Other measures affect legislative committees and lobbyists.

Legislature

The new majority in the house of representatives chose to reorganize that chamber's committee structure. House Resolution 1 changes the names of eight of the house's 12 substantive standing committees. Some changes are relatively minor – Agriculture and Water Resources becomes Agriculture, Water Resources and Wildlife – while others are more significant; Labor and Human Resources is eliminated, as is Voters and Elections. Only the Appropriations and Finance, Education, Judiciary and Transportation and Public Works committees are untouched. The house committees were also more diligent than at any time in recent history about starting their meetings on time. House floor sessions, rather than committee meetings, tended to stretch into the evening hours.

Procurement

The Procurement Code provides a framework, through the creation of the state purchasing agent and Purchasing Division of the GSD, to "provide for the fair and equitable treatment of all persons involved in public procurement, to maximize the purchasing value of public funds and to provide safeguards for maintaining a procurement system of quality and integrity". Senate Bill 480 (Chapter 138) requires the state purchasing agent to develop a new system of standardized classification codes for purchasing tangible personal property, services and construction that are subject to the Procurement Code and further requires local public bodies as well as state agencies to use the new codes beginning July 1, 2016.

The Procurement Code also requires competitive sealed qualifications-based proposals for state public works projects. The selection of architects, engineers, landscape architects and surveyors is made by a selection committee, the membership of which is denominated in Section 13-1-121 NMSA 1978. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 482 (Chapter 139) amends that section to allow the director of the Facilities Management Division of the GSD, who is one of the denominated members of selection committees, to designate a substitute on selection committees. The bill also requires all members of committees, once named, to serve without substitution throughout the selection process, and it specifically exempts DOT highway projects from the requirement to form a selection committee.

The Sunshine Portal Transparency Act requires access to information on state contracts requiring expenditures of amounts over $20,000, including the names of contract recipients, each contract's purpose and money expended on each contract. The portal had not, until Senate Bill 537 (Chapter 141), provided access to the contracts themselves or any amendments. The portal now will provide an internet web site link to or a copy of the contract documents, including any resident certificates that provide a preference to a New Mexico resident contractor.

Senate Bill 459 (Chapter 137) allows for longer contract term extensions for independent jail contractors. The bill originally provided three-year extensions for a total of six extensions; the final version of the bill includes the option of one-, two- or three-year extensions.

The list of exemptions from the Procurement Code expands under Senate Bill 100 (Chapter 32) and now includes the services of commissioned advertising sales representatives for New Mexico Magazine, a publication of the Tourism Department.

Property

The Property Control Act provides that a fee be charged on capital projects to cover the state's cost of administering the projects. Since 2001, the administrative fee has been 1% of the estimated construction cost for projects located in Santa Fe County and 1.5% for projects located in other counties. Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 723 (Chapter 146) changes the administrative fee to a flat 3% of the appropriated amount, regardless of where the project is located.

The GSD is authorized by House Floor Substitute for House Joint Resolution 20 to transfer land in Santa Fe County that was acquired by the GSD in 2006 to the Administrative Office of the Courts for a future building site for a magistrate court facility. The resolution provides that the property not be sold, conveyed or transferred until the proposed conveyance document has been reviewed and approved by the Capitol Buildings Planning Commission. It also provides that if the Administrative Office of the Courts ever determines that the property is no longer needed for a magistrate court facility, the GSD may opt to reclaim it.

Senate Joint Resolution 7, which is fully discussed in the Education section, authorizes the GSD to sell approximately 11 acres of land in Santa Fe to the New Mexico School for the Arts, a state-chartered residential high school, for a permanent campus.

Open Records

With the enactment of House Bill 155 (Chapter 56), reports by lobbyists and lobbyists' employers will now be posted on the secretary of state's web site in a searchable format and will be archived and accessible for at least 10 years. In addition, the lobbyist annual registration fee is increased to $50.00.

TAXATION

Several pieces of taxation legislation made it through the 2015 session that will have a significant impact on the administration of New Mexico's taxes, including a new Administrative Hearings Office that is separate from the Taxation and Revenue Department (TRD), the first such office to be separated from its administrative agency in the state. A complex process with significant fiscal impact to the state and local governments is resolved with new procedures to deal with refund claims pursuant to overpaid taxes, and multiple bills related to the administration of the Property Tax Code were passed. Only a few bills that included tax expenditures or other deviations from New Mexico's tax structure made it through the session, most of them extensions or expansions of existing deviations. However, several bills passed that provide additional tax relief to property owners. Two of these bills specifically benefit disabled veterans.

Tax Administration

Generally, unresolved protests of administrative decisions related to taxation or motor vehicles are adjudicated by a hearings bureau established within the TRD, whose other offices' decisions and actions triggered those disputes. Senate Bill 356 (Chapter 73) removes that adjudicatory bureau from the department and, through enactment of the Administrative Hearings Office Act, creates it as an independent agency called the "Administrative Hearings Office". The bill also creates a scheme, which features a nominating committee chosen by the legislature and the governor, for appointing a chief hearing officer, and it sets out rules that govern the selection and conduct of hearing officers.

House Government, Elections and Indian Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 581 (Chapter 89) (House Bill 581) and Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 669 (Chapter 100) (Senate Bill 669) are duplicate bills that attempt to resolve a recent dispute between the state and local governments regarding problems that arise when a taxpayer receives a refund due to overpayment of local option gross receipts taxes (GRT). The TRD collects local option GRTs on behalf of a local government and distributes the revenue to the local government on a monthly basis. If a taxpayer overpays the local option GRTs – either by failing to claim a deduction or by using an incorrect location code that places the taxpayer in a location with a higher tax rate – and then later claims a refund for those overpaid taxes, the state must reimburse the taxpayer, including the amount overpaid and previously distributed to the local government. In some cases, the overpaid amounts are several million dollars and would cause serious and significant fiscal impact to a local government if the state required the local government to pay back the amount all at once. Provisions in House Bill 581 and Senate Bill 669 create new procedures for adjusting distributions to the local government and allow the state to recover the amount reimbursed to the taxpayer on the local government's behalf. The bills also include provisions that protect local governments from fiscally catastrophic adjustments, including allowing the secretary of taxation and revenue to waive recovery of any amount, subject to approval of the State Board of Finance, if the recoverable amount is greater than 50% of the average distribution to the local government.

Four bills made changes to the administration of property taxes. With the passage of House Bill 49 (Chapter 2), a property owner has the option of receiving notices pursuant to the Property Tax Code via electronic mail, provided that the notice is consistent with the requirements of the Electronic Authentication of Documents Act and the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act. The request can be made, and also revoked, by notifying the county assessor or treasurer in writing or by electronic mail. House Bill 218 (Chapter 15) allows the TRD to collect delinquent property taxes by electronic warrant of levy served on a financial institution, provided that the electronic format complies with the Electronic Authentication of Documents Act and the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act. Senate Bill 104 (Chapter 44) clarifies that the TRD may authorize a county treasurer to act as the department's agent in accepting payment from a taxpayer of delinquent property taxes and related penalties, interest or costs that are due to the department pursuant to an installment agreement authorized by Section 7-38-68 NMSA 1978. With the changes made by House Bill 67 (Chapter 39), a county treasurer now has the authority to correct obvious errors in the data-entered value of a property in a property tax schedule made by a county assessor. This will allow the county treasurer to correct the error without a taxpayer having to file a protest or file for a refund after paying the tax; however, the bill precludes a county treasurer from correcting errors in the method used to determine the value of the property.

Two bills relate to administration of other taxes. House Bill 204 (Chapter 8) corrects an overdistribution of the liquor excise tax that was created with the passage of House Bill 16 in 2014, and it reconciles multiple amendments that were made to that section in the same year. House Bill 475 (Chapter 30) allows the TRD to reveal to the NMFA the amount of municipal and county GRTs collected by municipalities and counties and the amount of governmental GRTs paid to the state pursuant to Section 7-9-4.3 NMSA 1978.

Tax Expenditures and Other Deviations from the Tax Structure

Technically, Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 279 (Chapter 130) creates a new tax credit – the "new sustainable building tax credit", which may be claimed under the Income Tax Act or the Corporate Income and Franchise Tax Act. However, the credit is based on the existing sustainable building tax credit that will sunset at the end of 2016. The new credit allows more taxpayers to receive the credit within the $5 million aggregate cap by reducing the amount of credit per square foot of a sustainable building that is used to calculate the credit. The maximum amount for the types of sustainable buildings has also been adjusted to allow $1.25 million for commercial sustainable buildings, $3.75 million for residential sustainable buildings and $375,000 for manufactured housing. The new credit increases certification standards needed to qualify for the credit, including water conservation requirements, and will sunset at the end of 2026.

The deduction from gross receipts for certain military transformational acquisition programs is extended until June 30, 2025 by Senate Bill 448 (Chapter 18). The bill also now requires the TRD to report annually an analysis of the cost and benefit to the state of the deduction to the interim Revenue Stabilization and Tax Policy Committee and the LFC. Senate Bill 302 (Chapter 38) expands an existing deduction from gross receipts for administrative and accounting services simply by changing an "and" to an "or". The bill amends the definition of "control" to mean equity ownership in a business entity that either represents at least 50% of the total voting power of that business entity or has a value equal to at least 50% of the total equity of that business entity. This change broadens the numbers of entities that will meet the requirements of this deduction.

Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 565 (Chapter 143) makes many changes to the Film Production Tax Credit Act, including clarification of terms and procedures throughout the act and dividing the tax credit into two time periods: one for production companies that commence principal photography prior to January 1, 2016 and another for those that commence on or after January 1, 2016. The primary substantive changes in the bill include limiting the type and amount of tax credit payments for nonresidents who are hired for a production, providing incentives for hiring New Mexico residents and adding television pilots to the types of production that are eligible for the 5% credit allowed in addition to the basic 25% credit. In a related bill, a new mechanism to promote film production financing is created with House Business and Employment Committee

Substitute for House Bill 216 (Chapter 62). Under the new law, a film production company may assign to its creditor or investor the legal right to a film production tax credit that would otherwise become payable to the company.

Land that is used primarily for agricultural purposes is subject to a special method of valuation for property tax purposes, based on the land's capacity to produce agricultural products. With respect to that valuation method, Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 112 (Chapter 92) expands the definition of "agricultural use" to include the resting of land under certain conditions. The resting of land to maintain its capacity to produce agricultural products constitutes an agricultural use pursuant to the expanded definition. The definition is also expanded to include the resting of land during the previous tax year as the direct result of at least moderate drought conditions as designated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. However, that resting of land only constitutes an agricultural use if the drought conditions occurred in the county within which the land is located for at least eight weeks during the previous tax year and if the land was used in the prior tax year primarily for an agricultural purpose.

A disabled veteran or the veteran's surviving spouse who receives an exemption from property taxes pursuant to the Constitution of New Mexico may, under the provisions of Senate Bill 506 (Chapter 126), move to a new residence and choose whether the exemption applies for the remainder of the tax year to the former residence or it transfers to the new residence. Over the years, confusion has arisen as to whether this constitutional exemption also exempts disabled veterans from special benefit assessments. In 1938, the New Mexico Supreme Court held that special benefit assessments, which are assessments for improvements that are levied on property that is specially benefited by the improvements, are not property taxes, and therefore the exemption provided by the constitutional amendment would not relieve disabled veterans from paying these assessments. With the passage of Senate Bill 248 (Chapter 115), disabled veterans and their surviving spouses are now exempt from special benefit assessments, and the confusion can finally be put to rest. The exemption includes special benefit assessments that are assessments or levies authorized by The Conservancy Act of New Mexico, the Public Improvement District Act, the Tax Increment for Development Act and other similar laws outside the Property Tax Code.

Miscellaneous

House Bill 39 (Chapter 50) allows a taxpayer to designate all or part of the taxpayer's refund to the Aging and Long-Term Services Department for distribution statewide through the area agencies on aging. The agencies on aging will establish a grant program based on need that is available to all senior service providers in the state that meet the requirements of the program.

UTILITIES

Two of the three utility bills that were signed into law this year address geothermal energy, one of the renewable energy sources that may be included in a utility's renewable energy portfolio. The third bill concerns utility rates, specifically a utility's ability to offer certain low rates to encourage economic development.

With the enactment of House Bill 263 (Chapter 64) and Senate Bill 249 (Chapter 71), renewable energy certificates may now be issued to rural electric distribution cooperatives for thermal energy that originates from geothermal energy sources and that is used to displace the use of electricity that would otherwise be needed for heating or cooling buildings, among other uses. In effect, this will allow rural electric distribution cooperatives to receive renewable energy certificates for the use of geothermal heat pumps, which may be used to meet renewable portfolio standard requirements.

The provisions of Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 352 (Chapter 72) allow gas and electric utilities to offer economic development rates to certain customers even though the utility does not have excess capacity so long as the rate is not lower than the incremental cost of providing the service to the customer. The favorable rate may only last four years, although the Public Regulation Commission may approve the rate for up to 12 additional months if it finds the additional period is necessary to attract a particular economic development rate customer to New Mexico.

WATER

Rural residents of the state are affected by the provisions of both of the water-related bills that were signed into law, with state engineer hearings now moving closer to where water rights issues arise and with certain rural water associations now eligible for state loan funding.

The default location for state engineer administrative hearings has traditionally been in Santa Fe. With the enactment of Senate Bill 276 (Chapter 37), the default location will now be in the county within which the water right in question is located.

Mutual domestic water consumers associations are added to the definition of "local authority" in the Wastewater Facility Construction Loan Act by Senate Bill 227 (Chapter 112). This change makes mutual domestic water consumers associations eligible for loans from the Department of Environment's Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund. The bill also lengthens the loan repayment period to 30 years from 20 years.

BLANK FOR PRINTING

FIFTY-SECOND LEGISLATURE
FIRST SPECIAL SESSION, 2015

BLANK FOR PRINTING

When the first regular session of the Fifty-Second Legislature ended without a capital outlay bill and without an anticipated tax package, talk immediately began about the need for a special session to address both pieces of legislation. There was considerable pressure from local governments and the business community to pass a capital outlay bill because of concerns that leaving well over $200 million on the table for infrastructure needs would further exacerbate the state's slow economic recovery. Additionally, there was talk about reviving the tax package, which appeared to have widespread support. The negotiations among house and senate leaders and executive officials had numerous starts and stops as the details and purported agreements continued in a state of flux. Finally, agreement was reached on capital outlay and tax legislation, and the legislature was convened in the first special session of the Fifty-Second Legislature, during which three bills were passed in one of the shortest special sessions in recent memory. Despite an early morning power outage that affected a large area of Santa Fe, including the Roundhouse, the legislature convened at noon on Monday, June 8, and adjourned within four-and-a-half hours.

The feed bill to fund the special session, House Bill 1 (Chapter 1), includes $112,000 from legislative cash balances to fund the house, the senate and certain expenditures of the LCS. As a contingency, the appropriation includes funding for a two-day session; because the special session adjourned after only one day, however, approximately one-half of the appropriation is expected to revert. Additionally, House Bill 1 includes $300,000 for the Administrative Office of the Courts for the magistrate court program and $4 million for the DOH. Both appropriations are necessary to cover budget shortfalls before the fiscal year ends on June 30, 2015.

Senate Bill 1 (Chapter 3, p.v.), a capital outlay bill that includes many of the projects considered for funding during the regular session, passed unanimously in both the house and senate. The bill draws $212.3 million from severance tax bond proceeds, $30 million from the general fund and $52.7 million from 26 other state funds for capital project appropriations totaling just over $295 million. More than $72 million is appropriated to the DOT for highway, road, bridge and other transportation projects, including $45 million for statewide road improvements drawn equally from the general fund and severance tax bond proceeds. Appropriations to the Capital Program Fund for repairs, renovations and development of state-owned facilities total more than $37 million, including $17.2 million for the new Meadows building and other health and safety upgrades at the New Mexico Behavioral Health Institute at Las Vegas. Appropriations to the Local Government Division of the DFA top $27 million to fund 248 projects in 32 of the state's 33 counties. These include police and fire department facilities and vehicles; libraries; aquatics and other recreational facilities; food hubs; and a variety of other city and county projects. The PED receives more than $18.5 million in appropriations for 260 school and school district projects around the state. Economic Development Department appropriations amount to $13 million for five projects, including a $10 million appropriation from severance tax bond proceeds to fund Local Economic Development Act projects statewide.

The Indian Water Rights Settlement Fund receives a total of $12.7 million, with $8.2 million appropriated from severance tax bonds proceeds, $500,000 from the general fund, $2 million from the Tribal Infrastructure Project Fund and $2 million from the Water Project Fund.

Appropriations of just over $11 million are made to the Aging and Long-Term Services Department for projects to benefit seniors, and the HED receives just over $9 million for projects at two-year institutions and tribal schools. A statewide Department of Information Technology project for emergency responder radio communications receives an appropriation of $4.2 million, and $2.3 million is appropriated to the Administrative Office of the Courts for magistrate and judicial district court needs statewide. In all, Senate Bill 1 adds more than $30 million in project funding to the appropriations that had been included in the capital outlay bill during the regular session.

After its passage, the governor signed the capital outlay bill and used her line-item veto authority to reduce the total capital outlay funding by $1,162,300. Additionally, the governor line-item vetoed some of the language in numerous projects – mostly "musical instruments" – that narrowed the scope but kept the projects' funding intact.

House Bill 2 (Chapter 2), also known as the "tax package", contains numerous provisions affecting the state's tax laws. While the tax relief provisions received the most attention, the tax package also includes tax administration provisions, including one that allows the TRD to reveal tax return information to certain local governments. This is necessary because in some states, a city may be so large that the state transfers authority to administer that state's tax laws to the large city; to be fully compliant with New Mexico's compact with the Multistate Tax Commission, the TRD needs authorization to reveal tax return information to those large cities. Also affecting tax administration are two provisions that give taxpayers that file under the Corporate Income and Franchise Tax Act an additional 15 days to file and pay taxes due if the taxpayer files electronically.

A multistate corporation whose principal business activity is as a "headquarters operation" may now elect to use only the sales factor to apportion its income to New Mexico rather than using all three traditional factors: property, payroll and sales. With this election, only the income the corporation receives from sales it makes to New Mexico residents will be included when determining the corporation's tax liabilities. Manufacturers were given this election with the enactment of House Bill 641 in 2013.

The provision that received considerable attention from the public is the personal income tax deduction for unreimbursed or uncompensated medical expenses. A law providing this deduction was originally passed by the legislature in 2000, and the deduction has been allowed by the TRD since that date. However, that deduction was contingent on the enactment of another bill and an appropriation, both of which the governor at that time vetoed, so the deduction should not have been implemented by the department. With the enactment of this provision in the tax package, the deduction is now allowed by law.

Also affecting personal income is a provision that makes several adjustments to the angel investment credit, including increasing the annual cap from $750,000 in allowable credits to $2 million and eliminating some of the restrictions on the type of investments that qualify for the credit.

The Technology Jobs Tax Credit Act is amended to create the Technology Jobs and Research and Development Tax Credit Act by including several provisions of the Research and Development Small Business Tax Credit Act, which is repealed. A basic and newly created additional credit may be claimed if a taxpayer makes a qualified expenditure in connection with a qualified research facility. The basic credit may be taken against the taxpayer's withholding, compensating tax or GRT liabilities, but not against any local option GRT liability. The additional credit may be taken against a taxpayer's tax liability pursuant to the Income Tax Act or the Corporate Income and Franchise Tax Act.

Under the Gross Receipts and Compensating Tax Act, an existing deduction for trade-support companies in a border zone is restored to allow the deduction until 2021, and a new deduction is created for the sale of qualified, high-technology research and development services and energy and satellite-related systems by a qualified contractor to the U.S. Department of Defense. This deduction will expire at the end of 2020.

The tax package also amends several fuel tax provisions to allow refunds of tax paid on gasoline or special fuels if the tax was previously paid by another source, and it creates a refund of the petroleum products loading fee under the same circumstances.

SECTION 10 - APPROPRIATION
ADJUSTMENTS
The general fund appropriations in Section 4 shall be reduced by $2.4 million in the aggregate to reflect General Services Department group insurance contribution reductions for the employee group health benefits program. The State Budget Division shall reduce each state agency's budget accordingly.	(2,400.0)		2,400.0

SECTION 11 - FUND TRANSFERS

$20 million is transferred in fiscal year 2016 from the operating reserve to the Appropriation Contingency Fund. $5.5 million is transferred from the State Government Unemployment Compensation Reserve Fund to the appropriation account of the general fund. In addition, an amount shall be transferred from the Tobacco Settlement Permanent Fund to the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund in an amount equal to the difference between Section 4 appropriations made from the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund and the amount transferred to the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund pursuant to Subsection B of Section 6-4-9 NMSA 1978 in fiscal year 2016.

SECTION 12 - TRANSFER AUTHORITY

If revenue and transfers to the general fund at the end of fiscal year 2015 are not sufficient to meet appropriations, the governor, with State Board of Finance approval, may transfer to the appropriation account of the general fund the amount necessary to meet that fiscal year's obligations from the operating reserve, up to $140 million. The same transfer authority is granted for fiscal year 2016, up to $65 million. The Department of Finance and Administration is also authorized to transfer $73,745,900 from the operating reserve to the Human Services Department for prior year Medicaid shortfalls.

*Numbers in parentheses refer to the dollar amounts of appropriations in which selected language, but not the amount, was struck.

**For the purpose of calculating the sum of line-item vetoed appropriations and conditional appropriations: 1) dollar amounts struck through in the bill are counted; 2) dollar amounts left intact in the bill are not counted; and 3) dollar amounts associated with contingencies that were not met are counted. Not considered here is whether, for a given appropriation, the governor's action in striking through selected language yet preserving the dollar amount has the legal effect of negating the appropriation. Sego v. Kirkpatrick (1974-NMSC-059, 86 N.M. 359) and Coll v. Carruthers (1988-NMSC-057, 107 N.M. 439), among other cases, establish law on the issue.
