Overview of Charter School Financing

September 9, 2025

Charter School Authorizing Structure

- Ninety-nine (99) charter schools operated in New Mexico during the 2024-25 school year, serving approximately 30 thousand students, or about 10 percent of the state's total kindergarten through 12th grade (K-12) enrollment of 305 thousand students.
 - Of these 99 charter schools, 60 are state-chartered and 39 are locallychartered.
 - State-chartered schools are authorized by the Public Education Commission (PEC).
 - Locally-chartered schools are authorized by the local school board of the district in which they are located.

Operational Funding

- Charter schools receive annual funding from the state equalization guarantee (SEG), the state's public school funding formula.
- Charter schools may also be eligible for various federal funding programs to supplement their operational costs, such as:
 - Title I funds for low-income students;
 - Title II for professional development;
 - Title III, VI, VII, and IX for support of special populations; and
 - Title IV grant funds provided through the Expanding Opportunity through Quality Charter Schools Program.

Flow of Operational Funds

State-Chartered Schools

Receive SEG, federal funds, and other funding allocations directly.

Locally-Chartered Schools

 Operational funding including SEG, federal funds, and other allocations flow through the school district the charter school is authorized by.

2 Percent Administrative Withholding

- As opposed to traditional public schools, charter schools do not receive 100 percent of the funding generated by the SEG for their school.
- Instead, up to 2 percent is withheld by their authorizer. Section 22-8B-13 NMSA 1978 states "the amount of funding allocated to a charter school shall be not less than 98 percent of the school-generated program cost."
- The remaining 2 percent of the school-generated program cost may be retained by the charter school's authorizer and used to support the administrative functions related to overseeing and supporting the charter school.

2 Percent Administrative Withholding

- The Public Education Department (PED) retains the 2 percent withholding for state-chartered charter schools on behalf of PEC.
- Local school boards retain the 2 percent withholding for locallychartered charter schools.
- In the 2024–2025 school year, $8.9 million was withheld: $5.9 million from state-chartered and $2.9 million from locally-chartered charter schools.
 - Appendix A provides details on amounts withheld per individual charter school.

Operational Expenses

State-Chartered Schools

- Cover all operational costs independently including but not limited to, transportation costs, staffing, special education and mental health resources, and reporting and data systems.
- Are considered local education agencies (LEAs) and operate like a small school district.

Locally-Chartered Schools

- Locally-chartered schools have access to services and resources in their respective school district.
- Locally-chartered schools still typically pay for items such as transportation costs, and food service for students.
- Locally-chartered schools receive varying levels of support depending on their authorizer's capacity and relationship with the school.

Capital Outlay

- Charter schools in New Mexico can access capital outlay funds through multiple state and local avenues.
- Eligibility may vary depending on whether they are state- or locallychartered.
 - State funding sources: Direct legislative appropriations, Public School Capital Outlay Council (PSCOC) programs, and New Mexico Finance Authority (NMFA) programs.
 - Local funding sources. General obligation (GO) bonds, the Public School Capital Improvements Act ("SB9" or "two-mill levy"), the Public School Buildings Act ("HB33"), and education technology notes.

Access to Capital Outlay

- Access to certain funds differs for state-chartered versus locally-chartered schools.
- Charter schools do not have ability to impose local taxes and are unable to issue
 GO bonds or education technology notes like school districts do.

State-Chartered Schools

May be considered by school districts when GO bonds are issued, but it is not guaranteed.

Locally-Chartered Schools

Are included in their respective school district's 5-year facility master plan, but similar to operational support, the level of capital outlay support from the school district depends on the relationship between the charter school and the authorizer.

Public School Capital Outlay Council

- The Public School Facilities Authority (PSFA), which serves as staff to PSCOC, administers several programs that are available to charter schools.
 - Lease assistance awards, which are partial reimbursements for lease payment on school facilities;
 - Facility Management Plan funding to complete to 5-year facility master plans, which are required by PSCOC funding eligibility;
 - Standards-based awards, for the replacement or renovation of school facilities based on established adequacy standards;
 - Systems-based awards, for the replacement of building systems in the effort to extend the life span of a facility, or lower maintenance or operational costs;
 - Prekindergarten awards, to provide funding to build or renovate existing prekindergarten spaces; and
 - Broadband funding through federal funding for broadband equipment or infrastructure. This was traditionally administered by PSFA, however, administration of this funding was transferred to the Department of Information Technology by Laws 2025, Chapter 82 (Senate Bill 401), during the 2025 legislative session.

Lease Assistance Program

• The PSFA Lease Assistance Program supports charter schools by providing grants that cover part or full amount of lease payments for classroom facilities, with the goal of ensuring equitable access to adequate school buildings across the state.

Key Points:

- Enables lease-to-own arrangements that are not considered debt;
- Charters must have been renewed at least once; agreements must meet PED/PSFA approval and adequacy standards;
- Covers base rent only (excludes utilities, insurance, taxes, repairs);
- Agreements may last up to 30 years, include principal/interest terms, and allow prepayment;
- Charter boards must comply with the Open Meetings Act and formally approve funding sources.

New Mexico Finance Authority

- NMFA administers several lending programs that are accessible to charter schools in New Mexico including:
 - The charter school facility revolving fund, a $10 million fund to renovate, expand, or build charter school facilities;
 - The public project revolving fund, for the purpose of financing infrastructure, building, and capital equipment projects; and
 - The New Markets Tax Credit Program, which provides financing for for-profit and nonprofit entities with a project located in a federally designated rural census tract in New Mexico to build infrastructure, purchase equipment, or cover working capital.

Challenges for Charter Schools

- While charter schools can access many state programs, including those offered by PSCOC and NMFA, certain inherent characteristics limit their ability to fully benefit from these programs, including but not limited to:
 - The inability to impose local taxes which impact their ability to meet local match requirements or revenue for loan repayment.
 - Lease arrangements that may be terminated on short notice can complicate underwriting of loans.
 - Charter renewal terms (every 5 years) reduce lenders' and state agencies' willingness to commit long-term funding.
 - Lack of real property ownership (many lease space rather than own facilities) makes it difficult to use facilities as collateral.

The amendment also removes two references to demonstrations of competency to align with the removal of this requirement as a contingency of receiving a high House Bill 171 (HB171) amends current law to update New Mexico's high school graduation requirements. The bill maintains the current requirement of 24 units to earn a high school diploma. increases unit requirements in core academic subject areas, requires the development of graduate profiles, requires school districts and charter schools to set two of the required units for graduation, and allows additional courses in career technical education (CTE) and work-based learning to count toward core academic requirements. The bill would go into effect for high school students beginning ninth grade in the 2025-2026 school year. Graduation requirements would not change for students currently in high school. FISCAL IMPACT The bill does not carry an appropriation.

There may be minimal fiscal impacts to schools to offer professional learning and strategic may also be minimal administrative, and therefore fiscal, impacts to the Public Education
