REPORT OF THE NEW MEXICO PUBLIC REGULATION COMMISSION TO THE NEW MEXICO LEGISLATURE CONCERNING IMPACTS OF THE ADOPTION OF SENATE BILL 53 OF THE 2017 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Executive Summary

The New Mexico Public Regulation Commission (the "Commission"), pursuant to Section 63-9A-21 of the New Mexico Telecommunications Act, Sections 63-9A-1 et seq., NMSA 1978 (the "Act"), provides the attached report to the Legislature concerning certain impacts of the adoption of Senate Bill 53 ("SB 53") of the 2017 legislative session.

On April 6, 2017, the Governor signed SB 53 into law, thereby amending the Act in a number of ways, which amendments became effective on June 16, 2017. SB 53 was deregulatory in nature, lowering the level of regulation applicable to the only telecommunications carrier that is subject to the Act, CenturyLink, and narrowing the Commission's areas of regulatory authority. The areas affected by SB 53 include the Commission's jurisdiction over customer complaints, the Commission's enforcement authority, and the Commission's authority to review and disapprove rate changes.

SB 53 requires that the Commission report to the Legislature every three years as to the impact the amended Act on residential and business consumers in urban and rural areas of the state every three years, though this first report is at the two-year mark. The Commission collected information and recommendations from CenturyLink, Staff of the Telecommunications Bureau of the Commission, and interested persons such as the New Mexico Attorney General, for preparation of this report.

As required by SB 53, the Commission has reviewed and reported upon the impact of the amended Act upon rates, service quality, incumbent local exchange carrier employment, investment in telecommunications infrastructure, and the availability and deployment of high speed data services. With regard to such areas as employment, investment in telecommunications infrastructure, and the availability and deployment of high speed data services, one would not expect to see rapid and dramatic changes as a result of the amendments to the Act, and there are not yet any clear trends. With regard to rate changes, the Commission has indeed seen several notable rate increases since the adoption of SB 53, but there were also some decreases.

Finally, the Commission is currently in the process of amending its quality of service and consumer protection rules to conform to the amended Act. Also pending at the Commission is CenturyLink's petition for designation of its residential telecommunications services as subject to "effective competition."

REPORT OF THE NEW MEXICO PUBLIC REGULATION COMMISSION TO THE NEW MEXICO LEGISLATURE CONCERNING IMPACTS OF THE ADOPTION OF SENATE BILL 53 OF THE 2017 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The New Mexico Public Regulation Commission (the "Commission"), pursuant to Section 63-9A-21 of the New Mexico Telecommunications Act, Sections 63-9A-1 et seq., NMSA 1978 (the "Act"), provides this report to the Legislature concerning certain impacts of the adoption of Senate Bill 53 ("SB 53") of the 2017 legislative session.

I. Overview of SB 53

On April 6, 2017, the Governor signed SB 53 into law, thereby amending the Act in a number of ways, which amendments became effective on June 16, 2017. The title of SB 53 was "An Act Relating to Communications; Amending, Repealing and Enacting Sections of the New Mexico Telecommunications Act to Provide for Public Regulation Commission Jurisdiction Over Incumbent Local Exchange Carriers and Their Investment in Telecommunications and Broadband Infrastructure." Despite the title of SB 53, the amendments did not establish or expand Commission jurisdiction but instead narrowed the Commission's regulatory authority with regard to the one telecommunications carrier subject to the Act, Qwest Corporation dba CenturyLink QC ("CenturyLink"). Moreover, SB 53 did not grant the Commission any jurisdiction to regulate broadband internet service, which the Federal Communications Commission ("FCC") considers an interstate service, solely within federal jurisdiction.

The Act, as amended, applies only to "incumbent local exchange carrier[s]," defined as any carrier that "was designated as an eligible telecommunications carrier by the state corporation commission [in a named 1997 Commission proceeding] or that provided local exchange service in New Mexico on February 8, 1996; or [] became a successor or assignee of an incumbent local exchange carrier" NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-3.H. Moreover, the Act does not apply to all incumbent local exchange carriers (known as "ILECs"), but only those "that serve fifty thousand or more access lines within the state" NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5.B. As noted above, that category includes only CenturyLink.¹

SB 53 was expressly deregulatory in nature, reducing the level of regulation applicable to CenturyLink and narrowing the Commission's areas of authority. Immediately prior to the effective date of the amendments to the Act, CenturyLink was regulated by the Commission as a "Mid-size carrier," a designation that was removed from the Act by SB 53. NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5.1 (repealed 2017). For additional historical information concerning previous legislative and regulatory regimes, please see Exhibit "A" hereto.

II. Deregulatory Changes Made by SB 53

The deregulatory intent and effects of SB 53 can be seen from the language of the amendments. Section 63-9A-5 of the Act, titled "Regulation by commission," prior to the adoption of SB 53, read simply:

Except as otherwise provided in the New Mexico Telecommunications Act, each public telecommunications service is declared to be affected with the public interest and, as such, subject to the provisions of that act, including the regulation thereof as hereinafter provided.

NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5 (1985).

SB 53 added several paragraphs and subparagraphs to this section of the Act. The section now specifically requires deregulatory efforts by the Commission as follows:

For incumbent local exchange carriers that serve fifty thousand or more access lines within the state, the commission shall adopt relaxed regulations that provide for:

(1) reduced filing requirements for applicants in rate increase proceedings under the New Mexico Telecommunications Act; and

(2) expedited consideration in all proceedings initiated pursuant to the New Mexico Telecommunications Act in order to reduce the cost and burden for incumbent local exchange carriers and other applicants.

NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5.C (2017). As discussed in Section V, below, the Commission is currently conducting a rulemaking proceeding in accordance with SB 53.

SB 53 also added limiting language regarding the Commission's authority in the areas of consumer complaints and enforcement of quality of service standards, stating that the Act "does not diminish or expand . . ."

(3) the authority of the commission to resolve consumer complaints regarding basic local exchange service; provided, however, that the commission's authority to resolve such complaints shall be limited to resolving issues of consumer protection and shall not include the authority to determine or fix rates, provider of last resort obligations or service quality standards except as expressly set forth in the New Mexico Telecommunications Act;

(4) the authority of the commission to establish reasonable quality of service standards; provided, however, that the enforcement of such standards shall be limited to the commission's fining authority set forth in Section 63-7-23

NMSA 1978 and the authority to seek an injunction set forth in Section 63-9-19 NMSA 1978;"

NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5.B (in relevant part) (italics added) (2017).

With regard to customer complaints (subparagraph 3, above), the amended Act does not include any express authority for the Commission to resolve complaints regarding rates, provider of last resort obligations, or service quality standards, so it appears that SB 53 effectively limits the Commission to consideration of complaints concerning consumer protection issues, such as billing errors, only. Thus, if a complaint is filed concerning the quality of a customer's service, the Commission apparently has no authority to consider such a complaint, at least not on a formal basis.²

Perhaps the most significant changes made by SB 53 were in the area of rate increases. Under the "mid-size carrier" regulatory regime to which CenturyLink had previously been subject, the Commission was authorized to adopt and to apply rules "allowing reasonable pricing flexibility for non-basic services and prescribing an objective mechanism by which mid-size carriers may change prices for non-basic services" NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5.1.F(2) (2004). In addition, the Commission was authorized to suspend the "introduction of new services, withdrawal of existing services or price adjustments for non-basic services" upon "a finding that the tariff filing is not consistent with the public interest," among other possible grounds. NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5.1.G(3) (2004). With regard to basic services, such as residential local exchange service, the Commission was authorized to "adopt rules that prescribe reasonable price ceilings and the means to change prices for basic local services." NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-5.1.D (2004).

In place of the above, the amended Act provides that, for any service "other than residential local exchange service," any rate change tariff filed by the carrier "shall be effective after ten days' notice to its customers and the commission." NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-8.1.B (2017). As for residential local exchange service, the carrier may implement a rate increase after sixty days' notice to all affected subscribers and after holding "public informational meetings." NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-8.1.D & E (2017). The Commission may review such an increase "only upon written protest signed by at least one hundred affected subscribers or upon the commission staff's own motion for good cause." NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-8.1.F (2017).

² The Commission's Consumer Relations Division ("CRD"), established pursuant to Section 8-8-6.B of the Public Regulation Commission Act, Sections 8-8-1 et seq., NMSA 1978, endeavors to resolve "informal" complaints between customers and regulated entities. Thus, CRD may help achieve resolution of a complaint before any determination regarding the Commission's jurisdiction has been made in a formal proceeding before the Commission. This, however, requires the voluntary cooperation of the regulated entity. See Commission Rules of Procedure 1.2.2.14 NMAC ("Informal Complaints") and 1.2.2.15 NMAC ("Formal Complaints"). NMPRC Report to Legislature Concerning SB 53 Page 3

Finally, SB 53 expanded the circumstances under which the carrier may be found to be subject to "effective competition," and potentially subject to an even lower level of regulation than is generally provided under the amended Act. This issue is further addressed in Section IV, below.

III. Impacts of SB 53

In addition to the changes noted above, SB 53 adopted the following review and reporting requirements for the Commission:

The commission shall review the impact of provisions of the New Mexico Telecommunications Act on residential and business consumers in urban and rural areas of the state every three years, the first review to be completed by July 31, 2019, and shall report its findings to the legislature. The review shall investigate the impact on rates, service quality, incumbent local exchange carrier employment, investment in telecommunications infrastructure and the availability and deployment of high speed data services. The review shall also include a report on those wire center serving areas that have been deemed to have effective competition and any wire centers no longer subject to carrier of last resort obligations.³

NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-21 (2017).

In preparing this first report, the Commission undertook a thorough process of collecting, reviewing, and analyzing information, the vast majority of which was provided by CenturyLink itself. On December 14, 2017, Staff of the Telecommunications Bureau of the Commission ("Staff") filed with the Commission a Petition to Open Docket to Facilitate Commission Review of Impact of Amendment to the New Mexico Telecommunications Act, commencing Commission Docket No. 17-00311-UT, a docket dedicated solely to collecting information and recommendations to provide a complete and accurate report to the Legislature. Within the docket, the Commission issued a number of orders to CenturyLink and Staff to provide information and recommendations for this report. In addition, the New Mexico Attorney General, the City of Albuquerque, the United States Department of Defense and all other Federal Executive Agencies, and the Communications Workers of America – District 7 (the "CWA") participated in the proceeding. The Commission solicited information and recommendations from them as well.

³ The section also includes a provision allowing the Commission to reregulate basic local exchange service at any wire center for which deregulation has occurred following a finding of effective competition. NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-21 (2017). The Commission is authorized to do so "following a hearing and findings of fact and conclusion of law, after July 31, 2021" Id. At this time, there is nothing to report concerning this provision.

CenturyLink, by and large, complied with the Commission's requests for information, with a few exceptions, noted below. CenturyLink also claimed that certain detailed information provided to the Commission was confidential, pursuant to New Mexico's Uniform Trade Secrets Act, Sections 57-3A-1 et seq., NMSA 1978. The Commission has found that none of the information provided in this report is trade secret or otherwise confidential as (1) the information provided herein is at a high level of generality and at a statewide, as opposed to local, level; and (2) CenturyLink failed to support its claims of trade secret with specific facts.

In general, as this report is provided at approximately the two-year mark following the adoption of SB 53, there are no clear trends in the areas of review. With regard to such areas as employment, investment in telecommunications infrastructure, and the availability and deployment of high speed data services, one would not expect to see rapid and dramatic changes as a result of the amendments to the Act. It is possible that clear trends in such areas may emerge by the end of the next reporting period, three years hence. All of the information discussed below concerns CenturyLink's operations in the State of New Mexico only.

The area in which one might expect to see a clear trend after the adoption of SB 53 is, of course, rates. As discussed above, SB 53 substantially increased CenturyLink's latitude to increase rates. The Commission has indeed seen several notable rate increases since the adoption of SB 53, but there were also some decreases, such as in extended area service rates.⁴ Attached hereto as Exhibit "B" is a summary of rate change tariff filings by CenturyLink during the period from 2015 to the present.

In the area of service quality, the Commission collected three types of information: (1) quality of service standards or "metrics"; (2) numbers of complaints, whether informal or formal, lodged with the Commission against CenturyLink; and (3) outage reports.⁵ Attached hereto as Exhibit "C" is a summary of CenturyLink's performance with regard to quality of service standards for the years 2015 and 2018. Though the Commission requested information for the years 2016 and 2017 and was assured by CenturyLink that such information was in the Commission's possession, the Commission has been unable to locate such information. Accordingly, the Commission has issued an order to CenturyLink to file the missing information with the Commission and to maintain and file with the Commission such information for the next, three-year reporting period.

⁴ With regard to all five areas of "impact" to be analyzed, the Commission generally requested information from the period of 2015 to the present, so as to allow for comparison of pre- and post-SB 53 trends. As noted in some of the exhibits and in this report, such information was, in some instances, not available to the Commission.

NMPRC Report to Legislature Concerning SB 53 Page 5

Attached as Exhibit "D" hereto is a summary of the number of complaints lodged with the Commission against CenturyLink for the period 2015-2018, as reported by CenturyLink, totaling 786. Exhibit D also includes complaints as reported by the Commission's CRD for the same period, resulting in a different total count, of 512.

Attached as Exhibit "E" hereto is a summary of CenturyLink's outage reporting for the years 2015-2018, broken down by the different categories of outage reporting.

With regard to CenturyLink's employment within the state, there has been a decrease since 2017, but it is difficult to say whether this is directly tied to the adoption of SB 53. Attached as Exhibit "F" hereto are a table and a graph showing statewide CenturyLink employment numbers for the years 2015 through 2018.

With regard to the area of CenturyLink's investment in telecommunications infrastructure, CenturyLink provided broadband investment numbers for the years 2015 through 2018. As essentially all infrastructure investment made by telecommunications carriers today includes broadband infrastructure, these numbers should be a good proxy for infrastructure investment by CenturyLink generally. Attached as Exhibit "G" hereto are a table and graph showing CenturyLink's statewide annual broadband investment amounts. This is, in particular, an area in which it is unlikely that any clear trend would emerge this soon after the adoption of SB 53. Infrastructure investment is affected by a number of other variables such as (1) the availability and timing of state and federal subsidies (both of which CenturyLink receives); (2) the logistics of various projects; and (3) the granting of rights of way and other permits.

Finally, with regard to the area of the availability and deployment of high speed data services, it is also unlikely that any clear trend would emerge so soon after passage of SB 53. This area shares many of the same confounding variables as infrastructure investment, discussed above. Moreover, as discussed above, the Commission has not exercised any regulatory jurisdiction in this area due to the lack of any grant of jurisdiction by the Legislature and due to the FCC's indications that state commissions may be federally pre-empted from doing so.⁶ Attached hereto as Exhibit "H" are a table and graph showing CenturyLink's broadband subscribership numbers for 2015 through 2018, broken down by residential and business subscribers.

With regard to this last point, the breakdown of information as to urban versus rural, and as to business versus residential, customers, the Commission has provided analyses based on such information where it was made available by CenturyLink. The Commission notes that, despite the clear language of the Act, CenturyLink has not maintained information in every relevant area of analysis at such a level of specificity. Accordingly, the Commission has ordered CenturyLink to do so for the next, three-year reporting period.

NMPRC Report to Legislature Concerning SB 53 Page 6

IV. Effective Competition

As noted above, the Commission is to report on "those wire center serving areas that have been deemed to have effective competition and any wire centers no longer subject to carrier of last resort obligations."⁷

On September 19, 2018, CenturyLink filed its Petition Requesting a Determination of Effective Competition for Retail Residential Telecommunications Services Pursuant to NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-8(C) (the "Petition"), commencing Commission Docket No. 18-00295-UT (the "EF Docket"). In the Petition, CenturyLink petitions the Commission for an order determining that, in each of CenturyLink's New Mexico wire centers, all residential telecommunications services are subject to effective competition.

In the Petition, CenturyLink notes that the Act, as amended by SB 53, provides "essentially two tracks for determining effective competition in New Mexico," including a "second, simpler test" that was not available prior to 2017. [Petition, p. 1, EF Docket.] The new test provides that effective competition is "presumed for all regulated telecommunications services provided by the incumbent provider" for any wire center in which the incumbent "provides basic local exchange service either separately or bundled to less than one half of the customer locations where such service is available at the time the petition is filed." NMSA 1978, § 63-9A-8(C) (2017).

The EF Docket is currently scheduled for hearing with regard to its first phase (determination of whether effective competition exists in each relevant wire center) for September 25-27, 2019. The hearing examiner had initially set the first phase hearing for June 11, 2019, but the hearing examiner later found that CenturyLink had raised issues in its rebuttal testimony that should have been raised in previously filed direct testimony. CenturyLink itself proposed vacating the initial hearing to allow for time for the filing of additional testimony. Thus, the hearing delay resulted from CenturyLink's filing of an incomplete Petition.

V. Rulemaking

A rulemaking proceeding is currently pending before the Commission to repeal existing rule 17.11.24 NMAC, "Quality of Service Standards Applicable to Mid-Size Carriers," and to replace it with quality of service standards applicable to CenturyLink under the amended Act, as well as to repeal existing rule 17.11.25 NMAC, "Consumer Protection Standards Applicable to Mid-Size Carriers," and to replace it with consumer protection standards applicable to

NMPRC Report to Legislature Concerning SB 53 Page 7

CenturyLink under the amended Act. The Commission plans to conduct a rulemaking proceeding to repeal existing rule 17.11.23 NMAC, "Retail Service Pricing Standards for Mid-Size Carriers," as well. The Commission determined that, due to the fact that the amended Act is quite specific concerning procedures and standards for retail service pricing, the pricing rule proceeding was the least urgent of the three.

In the rulemaking proceeding, the Commission has received initial and response comments from interested persons, including CenturyLink, has conducted a public comment hearing, and has closed the record. The Commission expects to issue final rules soon. The Commission notes that there has been some delay in the rulemaking proceeding due to a number of factors, such as the understaffing of the Commission's Telecommunications Bureau and the press of telecommunications matters including another rulemaking necessitated by the adoption of Senate Bill 308 in the 2017 legislative session. Moreover, the Commission notes that, due to the 2017 amendments to the State Rules Act, the Commission determined that there was no basis for implementation of "interim" or "emergency" rules. NMSA 1978, § 14-4-5.6 (amended 2017). Thus, a complete, fully noticed rulemaking has been undertaken.

Exhibit A – Relevant Legislative and Regulatory History

- Prior to 1998, all Incumbent Local Exchange Carriers (ILECs) in the state of New Mexico were regulated through rate-of-return regulation. At that time, the wireless and internet markets had not developed much.
- In 1998, the legislature passed the Rural Telecommunications Act of New Mexico, which relieved ILECs with fewer than 50,000 access lines from mandatory rate-of-return pricing regulation, and for the most part, consumer protection and quality of service rules.
- In 2000, the legislature passed the New Mexico Telecommunications Act, which relieved ILECs with over 50,000 access lines from rate-of-return regulation, and replaced that regulation with price-cap regulation and consumer protection and quality of service standards set by Commission order included in an Alternative Form of Regulation ("AFOR"). Over time, there were three consecutive AFORs. The first two covered Valor (eventually Windstream) and Qwest (eventually CenturyLink).
- In 2004, the Legislature created a special class of ILEC called a mid-size carrier, which served between 50,000 and 375,000 access lines in the state. Instead of AFOR regulation, the statute required specific price cap, consumer protection, and quality of service rules. At first, the category include only one qualifying carrier -- Valor (eventually,Windstream).
- Over time, CenturyLink lost enough access lines to qualify as a mid-size carrier, and was recognized as such in Commission Case No. 14-00068-UT. As a result, CenturyLink became subject to the mid-size carrier rules which also applied to Windstream.
- During further proceedings in Commission Case No. 16-00003-UT in November 2016, it was reported that in Windstream had fewer than 50,000 access lines, causing them to be a "rural ILEC," not a "mid-size carrier."
- In the 2017 legislative session, SB 53 was passed, eliminating the mid-size carrier designation and creating a new regulatory regime for carriers serving over 50,000 access lines within the state only CenturyLink.
