SUMMARY

Synopsis of Bill

House Bill 998 amends the Procurement Code to require the Attorney General's review and approval of contracts entered into by state agencies that are not exempt from the provisions of the Procurement Code and have a total cost in excess of $200 thousand. The provisions of the bill do not apply to contracts for emergency procurements pursuant to the provisions of Section 13-1-127 NMSA 1978.

Significant Issues

The Attorney General has been involved in the review of agency professional services contracts with a cost in excess of $200.0 pursuant to a rule enacted by DFA (Rule 2.40.2.10, See Attachment). In December 2004, DFA repealed the Attorney General's review authority. This bill would amend the Procurement Code to restore the prior review obligations of the Attorney General. However, according to the Attorney General's staff analysis, the bill expands the review obligations beyond professional services contracts and appears to require the Attorney General's review of services contracts and construction contracts as well.

The Attorney General's review of state agency contracts in excess of $200 thousand provides a check on the review of contractual services agreements from an independent executive department.

FISCAL IMPLICATIONS

According to the Attorney General, given the complexity and quantity of the state agency contracts in excess of $200,000, the review of such cases could lead to some delays in their implementation in some cases.

ADMINISTRATIVE IMPLICATIONS

There could potentially be some minimal administrative costs to the Attorney General's Office given the possibility of attorney workload increases related to this bill.

CONFLICT, DUPLICATION, COMPANIONSHIP, RELATIONSHIP

Section 3, Subsection P of the General Appropriation Act (House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bills 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 48) reads:

"The appropriations contained in Section 4 of the General Appropriation Act of 2005 in the contractual services category are contingent upon the Attorney General reviewing contracts over two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000)."

TECHNICAL ISSUES

Section 13-1-127 NMSA 1978 defines the conditions of an emergency procurement. It defines an emergency condition as "a situation which creates a threat to public health, welfare or safety such as may arise by reason of floods, fires, epidemics, riots, acts of terrorism, equipment failures or similar events and includes the planning and preparing for an emergency response. The existence of the emergency condition creates an immediate and serious need for services, construction or items of tangible personal property that cannot be met through normal procurement methods and the lack of which would seriously threaten:

- (1) the functioning of government;
- (2) the preservation or protection of property; or
- (3) the health or safety of any person."

Agency general counsel require a commission from the Attorney General granting them the ability to represent the state in litigation.

OTHER SUBSTANTIVE ISSUES

According to DFA, the Governor's performance review recommended removing the Attorney General's Office from the contract approval process and focus on assisting agencies with contract compliance issues. DFA further states rule change, removing the Attorney General from contract review was raised in the discussion of whether the Attorney General could represent an agency in a contract dispute when the Attorney General was a signatory on the contract.

ALTERNATIVES

Pursuant to DFA rule 2.40.2, the Legislative and Judicial branches of government are excluded from DFA contract review. However, the legislative and judicial branches are not excluded from the provisions of the Procurement Code. DFA contends that there may be "separation of powers" issues contained in this bill. In order to be consistent with existing rules and statutes exempting the legislative and judicial branches of government, the bill could be revised to exempt these branches of government from Attorney General contract review. Nevertheless, the bill as written restores a necessary check on the executive branch of government's contracts from an independent executive agency.

WHAT WILL BE THE CONSEQUENCES OF NOT ENACTING THIS BILL?

The Attorney General would not be required to review state agency contracts with a cost in excess of $200 thousand.

public funds, the financial control division of the department of finance and administration shall determine the authority for such proposed expenditure. The financial control division may request, and the state agency shall provide, such documentation and other information as the financial control division deems necessary to justify the state agency's determination of authority. The financial control division may disapprove the proposed expenditure if it determines that the justification is inadequate or is not substantiated by law.

C.
