SENATE BILL 1079

48TH LEGISLATURE - STATE OF NEW MEXICO - FIRST SESSION, 2007

INTRODUCED BY

Steve Komadina

AN ACT

RELATING TO FERAL ANIMALS; MITIGATING THE FORESEEABLE INHERENT DANGERS TO THE LIVES AND PROPERTY OF NEW MEXICO RESIDENTS
ASSOCIATED WITH THE RELEASE OF WOLVES WITHIN THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO; DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO:

Section 1. FINDINGS.--The legislature finds that:

A. prior to April 2000, there were no known unconfined wolves existing within the borders of New Mexico;

B. since April 2000, there have been a significant number of wolves released upon federal lands to roam within the borders of New Mexico, together with their offspring. Wolves, including their offspring, shall be referred to individually as the "wolf" and collectively as the "wolves" by employees or agents of the United States fish and wildlife service either

1 independently or in cooperation with and with the assistance of 2 other individuals under, and pursuant to, the alleged authority
3 of the federal Endangered Species Act of 1973;

4 C. by definition, wolves are by their very nature
5 undomesticated and free-roaming carnivorous predators with the 6 foreseeable and undeniable ability, if not propensity, to 7 threaten or inflict death or grievous bodily harm;

8 D. by virtue of these characteristics, wolves are 9 inherently dangerous to any human being they may randomly
10 encounter;

11 E. the United States fish and wildlife service and 12 other federal authorities have by various means informed the 13 citizens of New Mexico that the lives and well-being of wolves 14 have the full protection of federal law and that any human 15 being found responsible for the death or maiming of wolves
16 shall be prosecuted by federal authorities to the full extent 17 of applicable federal law, which includes up to one year in 18 federal prison or a fine of up to one thousand dollars ($1,000)
19 per incident; and

20 F. basic notions of justice and equity demand that 21 the law also provide the citizens of New Mexico equal, if not 22 greater, protections under the laws of this state as those 23 afforded to wolves based on the following three fundamental 24 premises:

25 (1) the life and physical safety of any human

1 being is, at minimum, at least of equal value to that of any 2 wolf and, in fact, is of greater inherent value in and to the 3 state than any individual benefit or cumulative benefits that 4 may be claimed to be derived from the reintroduction of wolves
5 into New Mexico under the cover of the Endangered Species Act
6 of 1973;

7 (2) the death or grievous bodily injury of any 8 human being by a species intentionally released in the state
9 under the alleged authority of the Endangered Species Act of 10 1973 cannot conceivably have been a permissible or acceptable
11 consequence intended or even foreseen by the United States 12 congress when that act was enacted in 1973; and

13 (3) if a citizen of New Mexico may be 14 criminally prosecuted, imprisoned or fined for causing the 15 death of or bodily injury to a wolf, equity and justice demand 16 that any person found responsible for unleashing such 17 inherently dangerous animals within New Mexico shall also be 18 subject to criminal prosecution, imprisonment or fine when it
19 is determined that any wolf or wolves released by that person 20 have caused the death of or bodily injury to any human being in 21 New Mexico.

22 Section 2. REGULATION OF WOLF RELEASES.--Based on the 23 foregoing findings, the legislature declares the following:

24 A. the knowing, premeditated and intentional
25 unconstrained release of any inherently dangerous carnivorous

1 predator, including any wolf, in New Mexico by any person shall 2 be found to constitute an act that:

3 (1) poses a foreseeable threat to the health,
4 safety and welfare of a New Mexico citizen or a citizen's 5 livestock;

6 (2) exceeds the scope of authority intended to 7 be vested in the executive branch of the federal government by 8 the United States congress when the latter body enacted the 9 Endangered Species Act of 1973, if it is determined in a state 10 court of competent jurisdiction that one or more wolves has 11 either caused the death of or inflicted great bodily injury to 12 any New Mexico citizen or a citizen's livestock; or

13 (3) because wolves are inherently dangerous
14 carnivorous predators, it shall be the joint and several lawful 15 duty of each person who causes, participates in or assists in 16 the release of any wolf in New Mexico to at all times properly
17 supervise, monitor and control both that wolf and any offspring
18 produced by that wolf and to appropriately limit the migrations
19 of wolves in and around New Mexico for the purpose of achieving 20 full and complete compliance with any and all of the 21 requirements and objectives of this statute;

22 B. any persons charged under this statute with the 23 duty to supervise, monitor and control any wolf or to limit the 24 migrations of any wolf shall discharge those responsibilities
25 in full and complete compliance with the following

16 Mexico citizen, provided that such pet or livestock is lawfully

18 the wolf occurs;

19 (6) any person found in violation of this 20 lawful duty to supervise, monitor and control a wolf or to 21 appropriately limit its migration pursuant to this section

15 been killed by a wolf in New Mexico in violation of this 16 section, each person charged under the provisions of this 17 section with the duty to supervise, monitor and control the 18 wolf involved in the attack or to limit the wolf's migration
19 shall be guilty of committing an act greatly dangerous to the 20 lives of others pursuant to the provisions of Section 30-2-1
21 NMSA 1978 if the human being that was attacked was lawfully 22 entitled to be at the location where the attack occurred;
