56TH LEGISLATURE - STATE OF NEW MEXICO - FIRST SESSION, 2023

INTRODUCED BY

Mimi Stewart

A MEMORIAL

RECOGNIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF FORESTS TO THE STATE.

WHEREAS, New Mexico is well known for its beautiful and abundant resources, which provide ecological, cultural and economic benefits and make New Mexico the land of enchantment; and

WHEREAS, New Mexico's forests cover almost one-third of the state, or twenty-four million seven hundred thousand acres, with forty-two percent being privately owned, including tribal lands; and

WHEREAS, forests provide essential ecological services, such as providing a habitat for wildlife, oxygen, clean water, the uptake of carbon dioxide and cooling temperatures. As one student said, "Forests are not just trees, they are life.". As another student said, "If forests disappear, many species won't .224520.1

have a home."; and

WHEREAS, forests provide cultural connections that are essential to the rich heritage of New Mexico, and families throughout New Mexico have loved the land, including forests, for generations. As one student said, "My grandpa and I go to the forest to hunt piñon nuts."; and

WHEREAS, the loss of forests takes away the culture, way of life and income for many New Mexicans — from grazing, collecting firewood, harvesting medicinal herbs and wood for latillas, hunting and other activities; and

WHEREAS, outdoor recreation, including recreation in the forests, brings in billions of dollars to New Mexico's economy and makes up more than two and one-tenth percent of the state's gross domestic product; and

WHEREAS, mental wellness, which can be found through connection with the forest, is priceless. As one student said, "The forest is a peaceful place where I go to clear my mind.". As another student said, "Forests provide sanctuary."; and

WHEREAS, forests are under threat from drought, catastrophic wildfires, rising temperatures, trash, overcrowding of trees and bark beetles. As one student said, "Everything in the forest is connected. If one thing dies, others die, too."; and

WHEREAS, people can help prevent catastrophic wildfires by putting out campfires, not throwing cigarette butts out of car .224520.1

WHEREAS, many New Mexicans are unaware of the importance of forests and the threats to them; and

WHEREAS, the urgency for forest education is growing, and education and outreach can help develop the next generation of environmental stewards;
