Guiding Principles for Next Gen CTE Pilot

The Next Gen CTE Pilot

Allocates funds to the development of new CTE opportunities, either directly through the establishment of new programs of study, or through those educational activities that provide the foundation for successful career preparation.

New Programs of Study

Integration of Math into CTE

Integration of soft skills into CTE

Professional Development

Career Exploration

CTSO Funding

Work-based Learning

High-quality Curriculum

Pilot

New Programs of Study

HB91 established several requirements for new program eligibility:

- Rigorous content, aligning academic standards, and CTE content
- A pathway to a postsecondary program
- A dual credit opportunity for secondary students
- Student demonstrations of STEM competency
- Soft and social skills training
- Pathways that lead to a credential or degree
- Partnerships between secondary, postsecondary, and business and industry
- Provisions to collect and evaluate outcome data

CTE Supports

Integration of Math into CTE

Integration of soft skills
into CTE

In addition to funding the development of programs of study, LEAs can use Next Gen CTE pilot funds to support career exploration and preparation through other educational opportunities.

Funding is available for CTE-related support activities without requiring a complete program of study

- Soft Skills Development and CTSO Advisor Stipends
- Integration of Mathematics into CTE courses
- Guided Career Exploration
- CTE Dual Credit Credentialing
- Work-based Learning

Application Availability

- Applies to all public school districts, including district-chartered high schools and state-chartered high schools.
- While Perkins federal funding decisions are based on school enrollment and U.S. Census poverty levels, Next Gen CTE state funding will not use a pre-established funding formula.
- Next Gen CTE funding is provided on a competitive basis taking design, scope, and anticipated impact into consideration.

Current Numbers

Students served:

- 27,480 students will be receiving direct services
 - 24 Districts
 - 6 State Charters
 - 3 RECs
