IEP Considerations for Students with Autism Spectrum Disorders

- 1. Extended Educational Programming Extended School Year (ESY) services or programs offered when school is not in session and/or the extension of the school day.
- 2. Daily Schedules reflecting minimal unstructured time and active engagement in learning activities Developing a schedule dependent on the students individual functioning including short blocks of time or the use of more organized arrangements during unstructured times.
- 3. In-home and Community-Based Training or viable alternatives that assist the student with acquisition of social/behavioral skills Teaching in "real world" environment where social/behavioral skills are needed.
- 4. Positive Behavior Support Strategies Modifying environments to help students learn new and appropriate behaviors and the prevention of problem behaviors through Behavior Intervention Plan.
- 5. Futures Planning (beginning at any age) Having an end goal in mind and in each grade level build skills to reach long-term goals.
- 6. Parent/Family Training and Support Providing training and support by personnel with experience in ASD.
- Staff-to-Student Ratio Providing the number of staff members needed in classroom and out of the classroom to provide appropriate identified activities that are needed to achieve social/behavioral progress at the student's developmental and learning level.
- 8. Communication Interventions Including language forms and functions that enhance effective communication across settings such as assistive technology.
- 9. Social Skills Supports Providing strategies based on social skills assessment/curriculum and provided across settings.
- 10. Professional Educator/Staff Support Ensuring staff have general training about autism and strategies to implement an IEP for students with ASD.
- 11. Teaching Strategies based on peer-reviewed, and/or research based practices Considering various teaching strategies, visual supports, augmentative communication, or social skills training.
