

Economist

The Legislative Finance Committee (LFC) is seeking an economist to work closely with the LFC Director and other state economists on issues related to fiscal policy, revenue forecasting, and tax policy. The economist participates in the state's consensus revenue estimating group, which provides official general fund revenue estimates to the Legislature and governor.

A graduate degree in economics is preferred; however, candidates with an undergraduate degree in economics and significant professional experience will also be considered. Candidates must possess superior writing, research, and communication skills and have experience with data analysis and economic modeling. Knowledge of tax issues, investments, and public finance and experience making presentations and conveying complex information are highly desired.
