HOUSE RULES

DUTIES AND RIGHTS OF MEMBERS

- (A) 7-1 Every member of the house shall maintain the member's presence by being physically present in the house chamber or by simultaneous, remote, electronic or telephonic means, during each session, unless prevented by sickness or excused by the speaker in writing. The excuse shall be filed with the chief clerk.

- 7-2 A quorum of the house is a majority of the members elected and qualified thereof. When a lesser number than a quorum of the house convenes at any authorized session, those present may send the sergeant-at-arms for the absent members and may compel their attendance. During any session of the house, the members present may take such action as they deem necessary to secure the presence of the absentees and, in addition to suspension for a certain period, may inflict censure or penalty as they think just on those who do not send a sufficient excuse for their absence.
- (A) 7-3 If at any time during the session of the house a question is raised by any member as to the presence of a quorum, the speaker shall forthwith direct a roll call and shall announce the result, and such proceedings shall not be interrupted by any other member raising the question of a lack of quorum. The question as to the presence of a quorum shall not be raised more often than once every hour, unless the lack of a quorum is disclosed upon a roll call of yeas and nays. Whenever, upon a roll call, any member who is present refuses to respond or vote, it is the duty of the speaker, either upon the speaker's own motion or upon the suggestion of any member, to request that member to respond or vote. If the member fails to respond or vote when so requested, the fact of such request and refusal shall be entered in the journal and such member shall not be counted as present for the purpose of constituting a quorum.
- 7-4 When a quorum is present and any member is absent, a call of the house shall be ordered by the speaker upon an affirmative vote of seven or more of the members present; excepting that a call of the house shall not be ordered on a motion to adjourn, motion to take a recess, after the voting on any question has begun, or after the speaker recognizes any person authorized to close debate on any bill, resolution or memorial.

The question of excusing him shall be decided without debate.
- 7-7 No member upon a roll call vote shall be allowed to explain his vote during roll call; however, at the conclusion of the roll call, a member shall be allowed one minute to explain his vote.
- (A) 7-8 A member other than the speaker or majority or minority floor leader, rising to debate, to present a petition or other paper, to give notice, to make a motion or to report shall do so by the electronic or telephonic means the presiding officer has directed members to use so that the proceedings of the body are not interrupted and shall not proceed until recognized by the presiding officer.
- 7-8-1 Points of order should be raised by either the majority or minority floor leader, majority or minority whip or leader's designee. Members wishing to raise a point of order shall contact their respective caucuses' leadership or the house parliamentarian or minority leader's designee, who shall raise such points when recognized.
- 7-9 No member shall speak more than once in any one day at the same stage of the bill, except for explanation, without permission of the speaker so long as any member who has not debated the matter desires to speak.

- 7-11 The author of a bill, motion, resolution or memorial has the right to close the debate.
- 7-12 Each member owes a duty to preserve the decorum of the house. While the house is in session, a member shall devote the member's attention to the business of the house and shall not speak in a disruptive manner to another member or behave in a manner that detracts from the decorum of the house or otherwise disrupts the business of the house. The prime sponsor of a house bill may demand in writing that his bill be heard for the first time prior to a hearing and action on a bill referred to the committee on a later date, and the committee shall hear the bill if such demand is made. Rule 9-10(e) or the provisions of this rule providing for grouping of bills shall not preempt such demand. [3/7/79]

While the constitution does not specify the grounds for expulsion, these may include conduct that impugns the integrity of the house, reflects adversely on the house or otherwise undermines public confidence in the institution of the house.
- Although that constitutional power may, under some circumstances, be exercised summarily by the house, the adoption of these rules represents the sentiment of the house that disciplinary action should ordinarily be imposed only after full investigation and the opportunity for a hearing.
- These rules are designed not for punitive purposes, but rather to create

The rules seek to allow the house to balance the various interests involved--including the particular needs of the house, fairness to an accused member and regard for potential criminal prosecutions and the criminal justice system. [3/17/93]

9-13-1 The house rules and order of business committee is authorized to issue advisory opinions and letters on matters relating to ethical conduct. Any question relating to the interpretation and enforcement of ethical principles as applied to the house of representatives may be submitted in writing by a representative, describing a real or hypothetical situation and requesting an advisory opinion establishing an appropriate standard of ethical conduct for that situation.

The committee shall issue an opinion regarding each inquiry or explain in writing why no opinion will be issued. Committee opinions shall be prospective only. No opinion shall identify the requesting legislator without the legislator's consent. A representative may rely upon an advisory opinion of the committee or, in the interim, of the interim legislative ethics committee and any representative acting in good-faith reliance upon an advisory opinion shall be immune from sanctions for conduct covered by the opinion. [3/17/93]

9-13-2 With the exception of charges of contempt and disorderly behavior which take place in the presence of the house, and therefore may be punished summarily, any charge seeking the disciplining of a house member shall be in writing, under oath or affirmation, signed by a member of the house, and filed with the chairman of the house rules and order of business committee. The complaint shall state with reasonable particularity the relevant facts upon which the charge is based.

Members of the public may also file a formal complaint with the chairman of the house rules and order of business committee or the speaker of the house who shall forward the complaint to the chairman of the house rules and order of business committee. The complaint shall be in writing, under oath or affirmation and signed by the complainant. The complaint shall state with reasonable particularity the relevant facts upon which the charge is based.

A representative against whom a complaint is filed shall immediately be given a copy of the complaint. Notice of the referral shall be given to the member who may be charged.

(cont'd) The complaint process shall be held confidential through the initial investigation phase unless waived in writing by the representative being charged. Breach of confidentiality by a complainant may result in dismissal of the complaint or the assessment of costs. In addition, any breach of confidentiality by members or staff may result in disciplinary action. [3/17/93]

9-13-3 Upon receipt of a written charge, or a referral from the speaker, the chairman shall notify the speaker and the majority and minority floor leaders, who shall select from the rules and order of business committee an equal number of members from each party to serve as a subcommittee to investigate the allegations contained in the charge or referral.

The chairman of the house rules and order of business committee shall chair the subcommittee but shall only vote in the case of a tie. [3/17/93]

9-13-4 The subcommittee shall conduct a confidential investigation. If the subcommittee finds probable cause to believe that the charge is warranted, it shall recommend that the full committee initiate a formal hearing. If the subcommittee finds no probable cause to believe the charge is warranted, it shall recommend that the full committee dismiss the charge.

Dismissal by the full committee shall be communicated to the complainant and the member charged.

The committee is authorized to award attorneys' fees to the member against whom a complaint under these rules is filed by another member if the committee determines that the complaint filed against the member was frivolous. If such an award is made, the fees shall be paid by the member who filed the frivolous complaint. Further, such a determination will be grounds for a complaint being filed alleging ethics violations of house rules.

The committee may assess costs against any complainant if the committee determines that the complaint filed against the member was frivolous.

Special legal counsel may be authorized by the full committee to advise and assist the subcommittee. [3/17/93]

9-13-5 A formal hearing is initiated by the issuance of a written finding of probable cause by the full committee and the service of a copy of that document on the member being charged. The written finding of probable cause shall become the formal charging document.

A member or members of the subcommittee or special legal counsel to the subcommittee shall become the charging party, and present the case against the member being charged. If a member, rather than special legal counsel, becomes the charging party who prosecutes the case, any such member shall be excused from deciding the case.

The committee shall hear the matter. Good cause excusal of a member from investigating, hearing or voting in committee on a matter may be granted only by a majority vote of the committee.

If the charge involves conduct that is the subject of a pending criminal proceeding in which the charged party is a defendant, the committee shall determine whether the public interest is best served by suspending the disciplinary proceedings pending resolution of the criminal charges, or whether portions of the formal proceedings shall be kept confidential.

At the formal hearing all parties shall have an opportunity to:

- (1) be heard;
 - (2) subpoena witnesses and require the production of relevant evidence;
- and
- (3) have the right to cross-examination.

The member being charged may be represented by counsel at the member's own expense.

At the time a formal hearing is scheduled, the committee shall establish and notify the parties of the preliminary schedule and procedures for making opening and closing statements and for the presentation of evidence. The committee shall not be bound by the rules of evidence applicable in the courts of New Mexico.

The procedures shall include notice that all testimony will be taken under oath, and that the hearings shall be open to the public, except that the committee may designate specific information or portions of the hearing to be confidential in order to protect the integrity of an ongoing investigation or prosecution, or to preserve the privacy of third parties, or for any other lawful purpose.

All testimony at the formal hearing shall be recorded. The recorded testimony together with all other evidence shall be compiled in a record of the formal hearing.

(cont'd) A violation of the committee's confidentiality provisions shall be grounds for a complaint being filed alleging ethics violations of house rules.
- Special legal counsel may be authorized to advise and assist the committee. [3/17/93]
- 9-13-6 If the committee determines that the member being charged has not committed an offense that justifies the imposition of sanctions, it shall dismiss the complaint.
- If the committee determines that the member has committed an offense that justifies the imposition of sanctions, then it shall make such a recommendation, including the severity of the sanction, in its report to the house. In addition to the report, the record of the formal hearing shall be made available to all members of the house under terms and conditions as the committee may determine. [3/17/93]
- 9-13-6.1 A reprimand is normally appropriate for a single, relatively minor act of unethical conduct or disorderly behavior in the presence of the house.
- Censure is normally the appropriate sanction for more serious or repeated acts of unethical conduct, contempt or serious disorderly behavior in the presence of the house, although repeated or aggravated violations may merit expulsion. A representative who is censured shall not serve in any leadership position and shall not serve as the chairman or co-chairman of any standing or interim legislative committee for the remainder of that representative's pending term in office.
- The extraordinary power of expulsion generally should be reserved for very serious breaches of legal or ethical responsibilities of members that directly relate to their duties as house members, and that impugn the integrity of the house, reflect adversely on the house, or otherwise undermine public trust in the institution of the house.
- In addition to the foregoing sanctions, the house may impose such other sanctions as it deems appropriate under the circumstances of the particular case. [3/17/93]
- 9-13-7 Sanctions shall be imposed by an affirmative vote of a majority of the elected and appointed members of the house of representatives except that expulsion of a member requires an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the elected and appointed members of the house of representatives. In the event of expulsion, the house shall forthwith declare the seat vacant. [3/17/93]
